Road Trip!!!

Your friends from InQuest will be on the road this summer. Why would we forsake the Hudson Valley's pleasant confines this summer, leaving friends and loved ones behind? Why would we risk our lives and precious baggage on the vagaries of airline transport during the oh-so-crowded summer months? Why would we spend our nights in hotels that refer to artificially colored water as shampoo? Why?

Because we want people to like our magazines, and if we can just impress you with the hardships we're willing to endure to make a personal connection with you, our reader, perhaps then—and only then—will we be able to return to our loved ones in the beautiful Hudson Valley.

You're moved, you say? You want to meet us and tell us how to make InQuest a better magazine? You want to stomp Pat and Mike S. (aka Mr. Balance) and their girlie "Killer Decks"? You want to stop at our booth and Feed the AtoG? You want to give us a Mox to get your name in this column? You want to introduce Matthew to your girlfriend's gorgeous, wealthy, older sister? Well, here's where to go:

DragonCon, July 13-16, Atlanta. Call (404) 925-0115 for info.

We'll be hanging at the Hilton, listening to blues in the Underground, and playing Magic till the wee hours. Publisher Gareb Shamus, Executive V.P. Fred Pierce, Mike Searle, Matthew Miliken, and I will be there, as well as Wizard: The Guide to Comics Editor Brian Cunningham. DragonCon is the official home of the Wizard Fan Awards beginning in 1996, and has the best evening convention activities on the planet. They're hosting seven different kinds of Magic tournaments, as well as tourneys for Blood Wars, Rage, Illuminati, Galactic Empires, Doomtrooper, SimCity, Jyhad, Dixie, Wyvern, Spellfire, and Star Trek.

Pack lots of black clothing and join our friends and fellow conventiongoers Dave Dorman, Lurene Haines, Phil Foglio, Jeff Grubb, Mark Rein•Hagen, R.A. Salvatore, Brinke (sigh) Stevens, John Byrne, Jae Lee, Allison White, and Pat & Ed.

Gen Con, August 10-13, Milwaukee. Fax your name and address to Sandy Kinney at (414) 248-7144 by June 15 for info.

If it's a game, someone is playing it at Gen Con. This convention is so big, it almost defies description. If you're a gamer and haven't been here, come! InQuest is sponsoring the first-ever Gen Con Blood Wars Tournament! We'll be using the TSR castle for photo ops and acting like industry insiders. Stop by the InQuest booth to challenge Gareb, Fred, Pat McCallum, Mike S., Matthew, Mike Fasolo, and me. Oh yeah, Tim Bradstreet will be there, too!

In addition, Wizard Press will also be attending the Chicago ComiCon, the San Diego Comic-Con, and The National Sports Collector's Convention this summer. Please stop by and tell us what you think about our 'zines—we need to know!

INQUISITION

In Like Flynn

The verdict is in on InQuest #1. While fans had plenty to say on how InQuest could be a better magazine, the general consensus is that we've got ourselves a nifty li'l book here. But I'll let the letters speak for themselves...

In the Crosshairs

Starting with the absolute veracity of the Editor's Letter ("Please God, don't let my rare card suck!"), continuing through the strangeness of the "Ultimate Chaos!" and the [Card Stock] "Like Rats on Cocaine" pieces (hysterically true and candid), and concluding with the sad truth that we'll all go broke buying this stuff, you've hit it just right.

Good job.

Cary Newburger
New York, NY

We aim to please.

Celestial Karma

Hi guys, pretty nice mag. Although the card ratings system needs some work: I'm not about to throw some Celestial Prisms in my deck just so I can have a Regrowth, let alone a Karma, which should be a sideboard card for a white deck, not "something that should fit nicely into virtually any deck."

Loved the rest, great stuff on vampires, the "Ultimate Chaos!" article was hilarious. Oh, and when on page 68 you say, "Hey, cool—Dwarven Ruins is just like a red mana battery, right?," you mean Dwarven Hold, eh?

Kalen

Dartmouth, Nova Scotia, Canada

Some good points about the price guide intro. We've reworded that a bit to state more accurately what we meant: that five-star cards can usually enhance your deck, even when they're not part of the core theme.

As for the Dwarven Ruins, yeah, we slipped up. It shoulda been Dwarven Hold. Good catch.

No Justice for Jyhad

In your "Ultimate Chaos!" game, it was actually a tie between my two favorite choices, Jyhad and Magic. The reason for this: when Uno got knocked out, Jyhad got a victory point (under Jyhad rules, the predator does not have to be the one to actually remove his prey to get the victory point...as long as his prey is removed he gets a victory point and six blood). In Jyhad, one need not survive, one must only have the most victory points.

Greg Simoes
Lubbock, TX

Hold on, Greg—you're taking that dangerous step into our peculiar brand of insanity. In all the Chaos, Chutes & Ladders could have won and we wouldn't have known the difference.

In Quest of a Name

- 1) Where did you get the name InQuest?
- 2) With the Magical Hack card from Magic, can you change a mana symbol as well as text?
- 3) How do they cram all that gram?

Dean McDuffie
Gulf Shores, AL

1) Wizard Press Publisher Gareb Shamus, Associate Pub-

"Mickey, man,

I need a fix.

Some Ice Age, or

straight-up Magic

, it doesn't matter—whatever ya

got."

■ "Hey, no team of overmerchandised mutants could wax my behind!" protests angry man of iron.

lisher Stephen Shamus, and Kenny Shamus jammed on a name, and Kenny came up with the name In Quest. It was later changed to one word, InQuest.

2) Nope. Just land types in word form. You can change plains to mountains, but you can't change

3) Don't know, but the X-Men could kick Iron Man's ass.

Contest Clues

I have a few questions concerning the "Win Every Magic Card" contest [InQuest #1]. First of all, my entry will be an artifact. Will it hurt my chances of winning if I don't get the color of artifacts just right?

Secondly, can I tear the picture off the front of a mana card, and attach my own front on the now-blank side?

Finally, will the winner receive Alpha, Beta, or Unlimited cards?

Chris Birkhead
Warren, NJ

Wow, we got a lot of mail about that Magic contest. For the record, your card borders and text and so on don't have to look exactly like an actual Magic card. Just try and get it as close as you can.

Yes, feel free to butcher a Magic card to provide a card back, but remember that your contest entry can be bigger or smaller than an actual Magic card, as long as it's proportionate.

And finally, the winner will receive the most recent editions of out-of-print cards. So, while there are Alpha and Beta Icy Manipulators, you'd receive an Unlimited Icy if you won.

Scarcer than Star Trek

I would like to start out by saying your magazine is great! Good articles, nice format, and great coverage on new games. Your price guide is the best one I've seen yet. Colorful, complete, and the card combos are terrific. I just hope in the future you can expand on the less-popular card games.

The only problem I see with this new gaming trend is the difficulty in finding single cards for games other than Magic and Star Trek. I don't have much contact with other gamers, so trading is next to impossible. Any suggestions would be greatly appreciated.

Matt Taylor
Boulder, CO

Try hitting a local gaming convention. As to when and where the closest one to you is, we're planning on running some sort of convention calendar in InQuest sometime in the near future. Till then, ask around at your local gaming stores.

Friendly Suggestions

I just picked up your magazine on the suggestion of a friend. I'm glad I have such good friends.

I loved this magazine. From the mast-head rubric to Swan Song, I enjoyed the slick yet irreverent presentation. The only thing stopping me from subscribing now is that I wish to see one more issue to decide if you can keep it up.

Shane C. Pruyn
Ann Arbor, MI

As our, uh, close friends can attest, we can indeed keep it up.

Notes from Krynn

I really enjoyed your Dragonlance movie casting call. The pictures were impressive! The group on alt.fan.dragonlance has been working on the movie cast for months now. I posted your recommendations (with proper credit, of course).

Thanks also for the info on the DL animated series. I didn't know any of that.

Margaret Weis
Cyberspace

*Hey, no problem. It's the least we can do for one-half of the team that gave us Dragonlance.*

Magic Squared

Could you tell me what the going rate is for Magic: The Gathering Collectors' Edition cards? I picked up a Lord of Atlantis that was a Collectors' Edition without realizing that, since this card is a marked card, I can't play with it. Are these cards worth more or less than other cards of the same wording?

EAngel3

Anonymous in Cyberspace

For those of you who don't know, Wizards of the Coast released a Collectors' set of Magic: The Gathering (featuring all the Beta versions of Magic's basic set). These cards were standard Magic size, though they had square corners, exterior gold card trim, and had Collectors' Edition printed on the card back in gold. Individual card prices vary for these cards, but they're nowhere near what "real" Magic cards go for. You should be able to pick up a full set (which comes in a neat storage box) for about $200. And no, they're not tournament legal.

Secret of Success

Hi there! Just noticed that InQuest has no cartoons. Every magazine has cartoons.

Marcus

Clueless in Cyberspace

Y'know, after all the work we've put into it, nobody's noticed that every issue of InQuest is a big flip-book. Unappreciative bastards.

Y'know, we worked hard to put together the best magazine we could, and we were pretty confident that you all would get a kick out of InQuest. But we never expected to be as warmly received as we have been. Thanks to all of those who took a chance on a new title and picked us up, and especially those who took the time to write in and help us along. You guys rule.

Stumpers

Q: Can you sacrifice Saproling tokens to an Elvish Farmer if he didn't create them?

—C. Copelin, Benton, ME

A: Sure. The only thing the Elvish Farmer cares about is that it's a Saproling token. Of course, the normal sacrifice rules apply.

Q: I play a 1/1 Kird Ape, but I have a forest in play so it becomes a 2/3 creature. Can I tap Pendelhaven to give my monkey a +1/+2 bonus?

—D. Breen, Highland Mills, NY

A: No. Pendelhaven looks at the current numbers. In this example, the Kird Ape is a 2/3 creature, not a 1/1.

Q: My opponent throws a Paralyze on my tapped Colossus of Sardia. How much mana does it take to untap him now—four, nine, 13, infinite?

—R. LeFevre, Jenkintown, PA

A: Lucky 13.

Q: My opponent has three islands and a Sol Ring in play. He taps all three and the Sol Ring to summon a creature, but I immediately respond by casting Rust on his Sol Ring. What happens?

—M. Lanaro, Washingtonville, NY

A: Oh boy, what a question! As near as we can figure out (the Rules Team is in a meeting), Rust counters the effect of the Sol Ring. There isn't enough mana to cast the summon spell, so it should go back in its owner's hand. The controller of the Sol Ring will take mana burn unless she finds a way to spend the three blue mana already in her mana pool.

Q: I have an Icatian Store with 10 counters on it, but it's tapped. If all my regular lands are tapped, and my opponent casts Drain Power, does he get any mana from me?

—V. Navarino, Niles, MI

A: He does not get the counters from the tapped Icatian Store, so your opponent ends up with nothing.

Q: Why is the Black Lotus worth so much?

—S. Cott, Cyberspace

A: Basically, the Black Lotus is a cheap source of fast mana. Picture this: on turn one, you drop a Black Lotus (zero casting cost) and a swamp. Tap the swamp, cast Dark Ritual, and sacrifice the Lotus for a total of six mana—you can get a huge creature out on the first turn! Also, the Lotus was a rare card among only about 45 million total cards in the Alpha/Beta Limited and Unlimited sets.

Special thanks to Rich Redman at Wizards of the Coast for helping clear these questions up.

FOURTH OF SUPPLY?

IF IT'S NEWS,
IT'S HERE!

MAGIC FOURTH EDITION DISTRIBUTION PROBLEMS

The Fourth Edition of Magic: The Gathering is out—but when it debuted the first week in May, it didn't come in the quantities expected by distributors, retailers, or consumers.

"We got it in on Wednesday and by Saturday it was gone. We had to limit them to one box, then half a box, and so on," says Sharon Cieley of Dragon's Lair in Austin, Texas. "Luckily, the customers have been patient."

When InQuest asked about the distribution of Fourth Edition, Wizards replied with a fax reading, in part: "We are shipping Fourth Edition essentially twice a month. We have had to allocate to distributors because of printing capacity. We are printing more Fourth Edition on a per-month basis than with Revised Magic."

If the Fourth Edition does ship twice a month, and if distributors and retailers receive the same amount of their orders as they did in the first shipment, their orders won't be fulfilled for about two months.

But that's only for those who've gotten the first installment of their orders.

David Kufflick, the purchasing and card sales manager for T.D. Imports Inc., in Canada would like to know what's going on with his shipment. "We haven't even seen our order yet. Not a single card. We don't even know when our order will arrive. They can't even tell us that."

The claim of problems with printing capacity did not placate some retailers. "Anybody you speak to in printing over here will tell you they can pump out any print run you want in under a week," says Rich Dominguez, owner of The Outer Realms in Linden, N.J. "Why does it take me months to get five cases of Fourth Edition?"

Since Wizards is a young company, some are willing to give it the benefit of the doubt. "It's too easy to criticize from the outside without knowing the exact reason why, but there has to be a fair amount of trust and commitment for the system to work," said one distributor. "Wizards of the Coast should be more communicative."

T.D. Imports sends its communications with Wizards on to retailers. "We pass along the faxes directly from Wizards," Kufflick says. "We've also made it a policy to pass along the fax number of our sales rep so the retailers can complain directly."

Some retailers learned from shipping problems with previous Magic sets. "I only take pre-order for about 10 percent of what I order from the distributors," says Robert Moses, president of Chimera Comics & Cards in Fond Du Lac, Wis. "I have to put a limit on the number of boxes they can buy." He says his customers find this "frustrating."

Can Wizards of the Coast find a solution to the problem? "I'm not entirely sure they can," opines Sean Schumaker, office manager for Berkeley Game Distributors in California. "Part of it is having them, I believe, coordinate better with [card printer] Carta Mundi to either give more product in a shorter period of time or for Wizards to reassess their relationship with them to such a point where they can actually fulfill their orders."

"I can say definitely that there's a tension rising," says Kufflick of T.D. Imports. "From our end, we're fed up."

"I can say definitely that there's a tension rising...we're fed up."

New Rating System for Magic Players; Cards Restricted

The Duelists' Convocation, the Wizards of the Coast organization responsible for running Magic: The Gathering tournaments, has revised its player rating system.

The new system, instituted in May with the beginning of the 1995-96 tournament season, is based on the United States Chess Federation (USCF) rating system. The Convocation says that the USCF-type system "should prove to be a much more accurate and meaningful system for all players."

Each Convocation member will begin play in 1995-96 with a provisional rating of 1,600—an average rating. Ratings will rise or fall depending on the results of matches and the ratings of opponents. Unlike the previous cumulative-point system, more-frequent play will not necessarily result in higher ratings, but should more accurately reflect a player's true skill.

The ratings will become official once players have played in 25 sanctioned tournaments against rated opponents. Ratings are likely to fluctuate early on.

In other recent rulings, the Duelists' Convocation recently restricted Balance and Fork.

extracurricular Magic clubs, which require parental permission.

The Concord complainants told the Concord Monitor that the policy was "a good compromise," but that they were skeptical it could be enforced.

But in Bedford, Magic's opponents vowed to continue to fight to remove the game from schools. Mary DiBari told a reporter that she would file a federal lawsuit to keep Magic off school grounds because its religious allusions violate the Constitutional separation of church and state.

The Bedford school district ended the month-long ban after consulting with three experts in adolescent psychiatry who concluded that Magic was safe for mature children. The experts reportedly noted that while the game could have beneficial effects, such as inspiring creativity, it might disturb children with emotional or behavioral problems, and children unable to distinguish between reality and fantasy.

In Concord, Beaver Meadow Principal Roger Brooks sent a survey to parents of Beaver Meadow students, then formed a committee through the school's parent-teacher association. "We decided to find a policy that promoted children talking to their parents about this, and yet addressed the issue of those parents that, for whatever reason, felt strongly that their children should never be exposed to this," Brooks said.

SkyBox Trading Card and CD-ROM Game

SkyBox is releasing a CD-ROM game based on a card set.

The card set, Creators Edition Trading Cards, is due this September and contains 105 original paintings of all-new characters by Julie Bell, Brom, Dave Dorman, Dave McKean, and Brian Stelfreeze.

The CD-ROM game, SkyBorg: Into the Vortex, is due this October and contains all 105 characters from the card set. It's set in the Microcosm, a microscopic universe. The player is a cyborg named SkyBorg whose creator has been kidnapped by an evil cyborg.

To rescue his creator, SkyBorg must search the Microcosm, interacting with its denizens. Some cards in the trading card set will contain certain codes that will help the player solve puzzles, but are not necessary to play the game.

SkyBorg: Into the Vortex will be both Macintosh- and PC-compatible.

Schools Restrict Magic: The Gathering

Amidst accusations that Magic: The Gathering inspires occultism, schools have placed restrictions on the game.

In Concord, N.H., Beaver Meadow Elementary School recently instituted a policy forbidding students to possess Magic cards without parental permission. While on school grounds, students with permission may only show or play the game with other students who have permission.

In Bedford, N.Y., Bedford Central School District ended its 30-day ban on Magic ("Magic Banned: New York School District Prohibits Game," InQuest #2). Although school officials were not available to clarify official policy, residents said the game may only be played on school property at supervised

Star Wars: The Collectible Card Game

This October, Decipher will release the Star Wars Collectible Card Game. This game will be done in six different "settings"—two from the first movie, one from The Empire Strikes Back, two from Return of the Jedi, and one totally new setting called Shadows of the Empire. This new set will tell the story of what happened in the underworld of the Empire between the second and third movies.

One problem: Shadows of the Empire required images that did not exist. To obtain the best possible visual quality, Decipher and LucasFilm decided to scan and digitally manipulate original footage from Star Wars. The film was escorted from the vaults under armed guard.

Firsts

Umbra, the first expansion set for White Wolf's Rage, will be out in August. Richard Ferguson, Brian LeBlanc, Richard Thomas, and others will provide art. Featuring more Garou, Wyrm, and event cards, this 90-card set will be sold in 12-card foil packs retailing for $1.95.

The Marvel OverPower card game from Fleer will debut in August. Filled with popular Marvel superheroes and villains like Spider-Man, Sabertooth, Rogue, and Venom, Marvel OverPower will retail for $5.95 per 64-card starter deck and $1.49 per nine-card booster pack. Starters, which contain mainly characters, will have 206 cards; boosters, which boast mostly enhancements, feature an entirely different set of 182 cards. Darick Robertson, Bart Sears Studios, and Dan Panosian are among the artists.

The new Magic: The Gathering expansion, Ice Age, recently made its much-awaited debut at Toronto's Canadian Comic and Card Spectacular. Competitors in the sealed-deck tournament were able to purchase one Ice Age deck and two boosters. The prizes were four diamond-studded Ice Age medallions ranging in value from $500 to $1,000.

Netherworld, the first expansion for Daedalus Games' Shadowfist, is due in September. Featuring art from Anson Maddocks, Jesper Myrfors, and Rob Alexander, these 15-card booster packs will retail for $2.50 and will feature new cards for every Shadowfist group.

This August, Alderac Entertainment Group will release Legend of the Five Rings, its first collectible card game. The game is set in 15th-century feudal Japan and filled with samurai, ninja, wu-jen, and kolat assassins, all battling for the throne. This 300-card set will be sold in 60-card starter decks retailing for $7.95 and 15-card booster packs at $1.95.

Coffin Lovers

Dark Sovereigns, the first expansion for Wizards of the Coast and White Wolf's Vampire: The Eternal Struggle, will be released in August. This 100-card set will include new clans like the Italian Clan Giovanni. You can also look for new European vampires such as the Queen of London and the Prince of Berlin.

Darkness Unveiled, the pocket players guide for Vampire: The Eternal Struggle, will be available in September. This $14.95 hard-cover book will include new and updated rules, a complete card list, and histories of the most interesting cards. The cover will be by Dave McKean of Vertigo/DC Comics' Sandman and the Vertigo tarot deck.

Not of This Earth

Mag Force 7 will release Star of the Guardians Unlimited Edition in October. The Unlimited set contains 250 cards, with the same number and mix as the Limited set. Unlike the blue-bordered Limited edition, these cards have black borders.

In August, Last Unicorn Games will release Heresy: Kingdom Come, a collectible card game in which demons, angels, and humans battle. These 374 oversized cards will feature art from James O'Barr, Michael William Kaluta, Brom, and others. Heresy will be sold in 60-card starter decks retailing for $9.95 and 15-card booster packs retailing for $3.95.

Game Designers' Workshop will launch two new products in July. The Regency Sourcebook: Keepers of the Flame is a new campaign setting for Traveller: The New Era that will reopen the old Spinward Marches campaigns. This sourcebook will include information on the Sword Worlders, psionics, and Vargr. Virus

Star of the Guardians was one of the first science-fiction card games, and it's got new editions on the way. The 250-card Unlimited Edition is due in October.

Redux Epic Part 1: The Guilted Lilly, based on the Vampire Fleets sourcebook, is the first of GDW's "Epic" adventure line books. "Epics" are three or more separate adventure books that can be linked together to make a complete storyline.

The Digital Domain

MicroProse, maker of the upcoming Magic: The Gathering CD-ROM game, has jumped onto the Internet. Users can download news releases, demos, and screen shots from a Web site (<http://www.microprose.com>) the FTP site (<ftp://microprose.com>).

Wizards of the Coast's reprint of RoboRally will be available in July. Four new robots, designed by Phil Foglio, will grace the set, and a few others are being resculpted.

Cybertechnology, a sourcebook for Shadowrun, will be released by FASA in August. This 124-page book is filled with expanded rules, accessories, and new cyberware.

MasterSystem from Sentient Software Division is a program based on West End Games' MasterBook system. This program, for Windows 3.1 or higher, was designed to help game masters run their campaigns by eliminating the need to memorize the rules. It can also be used by players to create characters for any MasterBook setting.

Kingspoint 2.0, for Window-based IBM-compatible computers, is the latest version in this series of roleplaying referee software from The Role Playing Software Co. (né Goldtree Enterprise). Retailing for $44.95, the new release has increased database access and mouse support. Designed to help GMs run city campaigns, the program features over 260 buildings and 500 NPCs and can be customized for any role-playing system.

The Hordes, a Windows-based deck builder and database program written by Darryl Yust, is now available on CompuServe, America Online, and other locations, including marvin.macc.wis.edu/pub/deckmaster/misc/utilities/windows/hordes.zip. This program can be used for many collectible card games,

Technical Difficulties

Decipher's Alternate Universe, its first Star Trek: The Next Generation Customizable Card Game expansion set, will be delayed until August by a month-long shutdown of the European manufacturing plant that prints the cards. The limited-edition, black-bordered, 121-card set will be sold in 15-card booster packs retailing for $3.

In Nomine, the new roleplaying game from Steve Jackson Games, should be out in August. This RPG will allow players to take on the roles of angels or demons. Written by Derek Percy, this 256-page book will feature cover art by John Zeleznik and interior art by Dan Smith and will retail for $29.95. The game was delayed in part by SJG's efforts to release Illuminati: New World Order.

Due to problems with printers and distributors, Apocryphy will not hit the stores until September at the earliest. When this Dementia 5 RPG in collectible card format does make it to the shelves, it'll be sold in 90-card starter decks that include instructions and sample adventure scenarios.

They're Back!

In August, FASA will appease popular demand by re-releasing the first novel of the Blood of Kerensky trilogy. Lethal Heritage, written by Michael A. Stackpole, is set in the BattleTech universe and reveals the secrets of the Clans.

Why does anyone think kids like cutesie-poo, cartoon versions of wizards?

A California supermarket chain sells an in-house brand of breakfast cereal called Magic Stars. Every box features a diminutive wizard floating beside a spoonful of cereal.

"Product enlarged to show texture," he chirps.

A wizard, once reputed to have the ability to summon demons from hell and bind them to his will, now stares in gape-mouthed awe at a processed oat puff.

My feeling is kids do not like a wizard who could be smacked out of the air and crushed flat by a spoon, nor do they like one who could get winded trying to lift a marshmallow. It's unseemly.

Kids like wizards because kids crave power. If you were a wizard, you could bring your favorite teddy bear to life. And not just to life, but 50 feet tall, able to breathe fire, and thirsty for men's souls.

Society, needless to say, has a vested interest in putting a stop to this.

"Wizards aren't real," we tell kids. "Magic isn't real either, except for coin tricks. Here, let me show you a coin trick."

We then show them a stupid coin trick.

Kids tolerate this only because they know we'll give them the coin at the end.

Gradually, they learn not to ask about magic but to ask for money instead. That way, they don't have to endure the trick.

And so, we grow up to be good citizens who believe more in commerce than in magic. All those stories about wizards are just legends, and creepy legends at that. "We'd much rather see those nice Siegfried and Roy fellows levitate an enraged jungle cat," the voices of reason say, "than see some old sorcerer do his mumbo jumbo. That's weird!"

They don't know the half of it.

NYAH, NYAH, VOICES OF REASON!

Despite what many people think, "wizards" really do exist, and they've been around for a long time. Archaeological discoveries, including rock paintings and carved totems found in southern European caves, suggest that people have been performing magic for tens of thousands of years. By way of comparison, the scientific tradition that denies the existence of magic has only been around a few hundred years.

With all that history, you would expect wizards to be dignified and wise.

You'd be wrong.

A 14th-century German occultist known as Abraham the Jew was the first wizard of the long-white-beard-and-pointy-hat school. Not much is known about Abraham, except that he wrote a wizard's how-to book called The Sacred Magic of Abra-Melin, which contains such chapters as "How to be beloved by a Woman" and "How to cause Armed Men to Appear." The book attacks spells and potions, stating that true magic consists of mystical, mathematical computations. And as we all know, nothing drives a woman to the brink of "beloving" like a good computation.

In 15th-century France, a wizard named Agrippa had a reputation for conjuring demons. In his native Germany, rumors held that a teenage boy had once blundered into Agrippa's hidden sanctum while the mage was conversing with a demon. The demon pounced on the boy and killed him, but Agrippa used magic to give the body the appearance of a natural death. While no evidence exists to support claims of Agrippa's conjuring ability, he proved his mastery of causing Armed Men to Appear: when he publicly maligned the king's mother's grooming habits, a squad of soldiers showed up and arrested him.

Gilles de Rais, the 15th-century French nobleman better known as Bluebeard, was a wizard of black magic: magic performed with evil intent. Legends claim that de Rais killed over a hundred people for his rituals, and while it's hard to separate fiction from fact, historians suspect de Rais did, in fact, do some not-very-nice things. And some not-very-smart things, too. Although extremely wealthy, he was obsessed with finding the Philosopher's Stone, a mythical substance that supposedly could transmute any material into gold. The point of having the stone, of course, was to make a fortune, which is exactly what de Rais had before he frittered all his money away on shyster alchemists and sorcerers, looking for the stone.

The 18th century brought the self-proclaimed wizard Comte de Saint Germain. Magic was very much in fashion in Europe in the 18th century, and Saint Germain used his occult knowledge to exploit that fashion and gain access to royal courts, where he spied for both Prussia's Frederick the Great and France's Louis XV. Saint Germain achieved notoriety by claiming to have discovered the elixir of life. The elixir was believed to grant those who drank it longevity and eternal youth, and Saint Germain said he was no less than 2,000 years old. Wondering if the Comte's valet was also immortal, a credulous nobleman asked the servant if he had been present at the wedding in Cana when Jesus turned water into wine. "You forget, sir," the valet responded. "I have only been in the Comte's service a century."

The most notorious wizard of the 20th century has been Aleister Crowley. Crowley was a British wizard who received his magical instruction from a secret society called the Hermetic Order of the Golden Dawn. Crowley broke from the order, however, and published many of their rituals and spells. He complained they had sworn him to secrecy, telling him that what he would learn he must reveal to no man, and then proceeded to teach him the Hebrew alphabet and the names of the planets. Crowley lived a life of excess, leaving no drug or sexual practice unsampled. Although he died in 1947, some people still believe that Crowley was, if not the devil incarnate, at least one of his minions. Others feel his contributions to magic are a great benefit to mankind.

But by now, you're probably wondering what the heck wizards do.

WILL THE INFERNAL LORD OF THE PIT PLEASE PICK UP THE WHITE COURTESY PHONE?

In the Western tradition, there are two varieties of magic: high and low.

High magic is the summoning of spirits, and there are a lot of rites and rituals one needs to know before attempting to summon. Wizards summon spirits because they believe the spirits can answer questions about the future, give instruction on magic, heal people, harm people, or simply provide the conjurer with a mystic experience. And whether you think of spirits as angels, demons, ghosts, or elementals, the one trait they have in common is that they don't come when you call them. At least, they don't come easily.

For that reason, high magic is heavily weighted towards ritual and ceremony. Very complicated ritual and ceremony. To summon a spirit, wizards say you need to know the proper name of the spirit and how it likes to be addressed, you need to have memorized pages upon pages of commands that will bring the spirit forth, you need to study carefully the stars to know the right time to perform the ritual, and you need to prepare your sanctum (you do have a sanctum, don't you?) with magic rods, knives, censers, candles, and orbs, all of which you have personally made and consecrated.

Just to make a rod, for instance, you have to find a perfectly straight branch on an almond or hazel tree, cut it in the early dawn with a single stroke from a golden sickle (don't even start if you don't have a golden sickle), run a magnetized needle all the way down its length, stick a prism on one end and black resin on the other, bind the whole thing with rings of copper and zinc, and then have it consecrated during a new moon by another wizard. That's so you can have a stick.

The point of all this work is that supposedly if you put concentrated effort into the preparations, the spirits will come. In fact, wizards believe so strongly the spirits are real that one of the key steps in any summoning is the tracing of a magic circle on the ground. Magic circles are special designs that constitute impassable barriers to spirits. The wizard and his assistant stay inside the circle during the ceremony and the spirits stay outside. If the circle is broken at any point, it can mean bad news. Crowley and another wizard named Victor Neuberg learned this during a trip to Algeria in 1908.

HEY YOU—GET OUT OF MY DESERT!

One night, Crowley and Neuberg decided to slip out into the desert to summon Choronzon, a spirit described by Crowley as "the dweller in the abyss." Neuberg drew a magic circle in the sand while Crowley drew a separate triangle into which they would conjure the demon. Neuberg stepped into the circle, but Crowley stepped into the triangle so Choronzon would possess him when it manifested.

Neuberg started the invocation and almost immediately Crowley was possessed. He raved like a madman and cawed like a crow. Imitating the woman Neuberg loved, Crowley tried to entice him into leaving the circle. Neuberg refused. Crowley then began discoursing at length, speaking in the voice of the demon. Neuberg started taking notes on the speech and failed to see Crowley throw sand on the rim of the circle, obliterating part of it. Crowley charged in through the break and attacked Neuberg, throwing him to the ground.

Although he was stunned, Neuberg managed to pull out his magic knife and drive Crowley back into the triangle. Holding him at bay, Neuberg redrew the circle and completed the invocation, banishing the demon back to the abyss, two hours after the ordeal began. Neuberg was sick for weeks afterward.

The thing is, we only have Crowley's word that this happened, and Crowley was...well, a kook. He may well have been lying about the whole thing. He may also have been psycho enough to think acting like a demon and forcing a friend to sand-wrestle would be jolly good fun. Some researchers in the '70s, however, conducted an experiment that suggests there may be more to this type of spirit conjuring than we realize.

In 1972, a team of parapsychology researchers created a fictitious character named "Philip." Their goal was to see if manifestations of spirits, as reported by wizards and mediums, could be shown to have a psychological basis. They invented details about "Philip," including the color of his hair, the details of his military career, and the time and date of his death. When "Philip" was complete, they attempted to contact him.

They gathered regularly, trying again and again to reach him, but never getting an answer. Finally, after a year, another researcher suggested they try some of the methods used in séances, such as joining hands around a table and singing. The researcher believed these techniques lowered skepticism and inhibitions. The team tried it and, sure enough, "Philip" responded.

"Philip" communicated by rapping or knocking on the table. He was able to provide accurate details about the time period he supposedly lived in—details not originally included in his profile—but he could not answer questions about his life beyond what the researchers had decided for him. Sessions with "Philip" were seen by live audiences and captured on film.

Whatever conclusion you care to reach about "Philip" and other spirits—whether they are psychological, as the Toronto researchers claim, or spiritual, as the wizards claim—this case demonstrates that poking into the spirit world carries the risk of actually contacting something.

Creepy.

HOW LOW CAN YOU GO?

Low magic, the other kind wizards practice, is what you and I think of when we imagine magic. It's magic for people who are more interested in communing with money and babes than astral spirits. Low magic is all the cool stuff: spells, potions, charms, and curses. When you see a painting of a wizard conjuring a firestorm or casting a lightning bolt to smite his foes, that's low magic.

Unfortunately, low magic is also the clearinghouse for all that is hokey in the world.

What is a self-respecting magic believer supposed to make of the Hand of Glory?

This was a talisman consisting of the hand of a hanged man, pickled in salt and dried in the summer sun. Supposedly, if you used it to make a reverse sign of the cross over a sleeping person, you could rob them blind without fear of waking them. As recently as 1831, burglars in Ireland were caught using this.

The basic idea in low magic is that you get hold of something that has power, whether it's a word, plant, or object, and then use that power to make what you want happen. Before I start with the spells, though, I should warn you that some of them are gross. Also, if you think you might want to try a "spell," don't. The people who came up with this stuff did not realize that potentially fatal diseases were communicated through bodily fluids. And we'd rather not get sued for all we're worth.

One more question, almighty one. What're the winning Lotto numbers?

Do not try this!

Don't even read this paragraph unless you have a strong stomach. ----->

Want to get your way with a loved one? This cleverly disguised plain old burger is really a Love Burger. The Love Burger's ingredients bring new meaning to the words special sauce.

Hey, you want to end up like this? Don't try this stuff at home.

Bodily excretions are believed to be particularly effective in magic. One spell purports to give the wizard control over anyone he wants if he writes the full name of his victim on a piece of white paper, places it in a wide-necked bottle, and then pees on the paper. Another spell says that to overcome a lover's reluctance, present him or her with hamburger patties mixed with sweat and menstrual fluid. Always creative, Crowley devised a magic ritual to compel people who were bothering him to stop. Whenever such a person threw a dinner party, Crowley would see to it that he got invited. At the party, he would enter into their drawing room and take a big dump on the floor. In every case, after the party, the victims never bothered him again.

Potions and ointments often rely on allegedly powerful herbs to work their magic. A traditional love potion recipe instructs the wizard to take a "gill" of red wine; add rosemary, anise, cloves, honey, orange rind, and cumin; bring the mix to a boil; simmer and stir while counting to 100; strain the mixture; reheat it; and present it to the intended when sweet vapors rise from the brew. The recipe says this potion shall not fail unless the wizard keeps slovenly habits. I tried it and my girlfriend asked why I was giving her hot, stinky wine.

Another recipe promises invisibility. The wizard is instructed to fast for 15 days, following which he is to get drunk every five nights on wine steeped with poppies and hemp, and then, when the time comes, smear himself with ointment made from human ashes and "nightbird" blood. Poppies and hemp, of course, are the sources of opium and marijuana. Get drunk on that wine after not eating for two weeks, and you might not only think you're invisible, but that you're Merlin, Jimmy Page, and Cap'n Crunch rolled up into one.

Certain words are also believed to have special powers. "Abracadabra" has been used by wizards for a variety of purposes. Supposedly, it can make a cold or a flu go away when written like this:

ABRACADABRA
ABRACADABR
ABRACADAB
ABRACADA
ABRACAD
ABRACA
ABRAC

It also makes a great rhyme with "grab ya," as Steve Miller once demonstrated. Another gem of this sort is the palindrome "sator arepo tenet opera rotas." People once believed that if you wrote this in bat's blood on parchment and hid it under the threshold of a house, it would compel everyone who crossed over it to dance uncontrollably.

SAVING LIVES BY SUCKING...TODAY ON OPRAH

Low magic requires a certain belief in its powers to have a chance of working. If you believe you have successfully crafted a love potion and given it to the person you desire, you might start to feel confident that they will like you, and your confidence may actually inspire them to like you.

Admittedly, all the belief in the world is not going to get anyone to do the "sator arepo" hustle, but people have performed impressive feats of magic based solely on belief. A common form of healing among societies with shamans, or tribal wizards, is the "sucking" ritual. The Ona tribe at the southern tip of South America is one culture that practices this.

An Ona shaman faced with an ill patient will put on something of a show, carefully examining the places where the patient feels pain and often giving a look of horror at what he sees. He will then massage the patient with his hands, attempting to draw into one area, usually the chest, all of the evil power that has made the person sick. When this is done, the shaman will quickly press his mouth to their skin and suck violently. Sometimes this is a long process, taking up to an hour; sometimes it is very quick (you can stop it with the dirty jokes right now).

When the shaman is done, he pushes himself away from the patient, clapping a hand to his mouth as if to keep something from getting out. He then spits an object onto the ground for all to see. Objects spat out have included flint, mud, mice, insects, baby octopi, and jellyfish. The tribesmen believe that the object has caused the illness. It may have been placed there by a malevolent spirit or an evil shaman, but it is out now and the shaman's healing work is done.

The shaman, of course, has used sleight of hand, palming the object earlier in the ritual and waiting for the right moment to "spit" it out. But they genuinely believe in magic, and their proof is the many who have recovered from serious illness thanks to this treatment. Whether this is magic or positive thinking, we are again faced with a mystery, like "Philip," that Western rational thinking has yet to fully explain.

It seems likely, in fact, that as long as such mysteries exist, wizards will continue to practice magic because magic, no matter how dumb it may be at times, opens these mysteries up to us in a way that science has yet to accomplish.

But I guess you can't really blame the cereal manufacturers for being cutesie about the whole thing. Who would want to buy Pickled-Hand Crunchies?

Balancing the Scale

By Michael Searle

Someone once bet me that it was impossible to build a single-color tournament deck. Twenty-two tournaments later, I decided they might be right. Except for white.

As it stands now in Magic, white is the most powerful color. Before you start claiming otherwise, think about everything white can do. It has the top spells in all main categories:

- Land Destruction: Armageddon. For four mana it blows up all lands. What other color can do that?
- Creatures: Great creature selection, including perhaps the best in the game, the Serra Angel.
- Creature Enhancements: Blessing for individual creatures and the all-encompassing Crusade to enhance all white creatures at once.
- Creature Elimination: Swords to Plowshares knocks any creature out of the game for good—kaput, bye-bye, skip the graveyard and go grow some wheat; sure, you give your opponent some extra life, but I'll guarantee you they'd rather take the creature almost every time.

■ Everyone knows the trick to winning is balance. Remember Miyage's stork move in The Karate Kid?

• Artifact/Enchantment Elimination: White does it the best—both in one shot—with the strongest all-purpose spell around, Disenchant.

With all that going for ya, how could you not love a white weenie deck?

The idea behind this pure-white deck is, again, speed. There's a nice complement of different-casting-cost creatures, ranging from the quick-striking Savannah Lions (out on the first turn) to the dominating Thunder Spirits (WW1) to the heavy-air-support Serra Angels (WW3).

Usually, you'll come charging out of the gates with a bunch of 1/1s, then drop in your special-ability guys (Preacher, White Knight) when you have the necessary mana. Keep the stream of creatures rollin'—as you pull Crusade after Crusade, your weenies will become giants, and you'll find your opponent dropping in life faster than he can pull cards to stop you. The best defense is a good offense, so keep pushing him.

Defense, though, is where you can shine. Besides the Swords to Plowshares—nice for knockin' off big, tough monsters—and Strip Mines—land destruction slows down your opponent, prevents her from using particular colors—you've got white's secret weapon: Balance.

Balance can do so many things for you. First, if you find yourself getting pummeled by one or more large creatures, block with your smaller ones until you're left with none. Cast Balance and all your opponent's will be gone too. Poof!

Also, you can use Balance as a white Mind Twist, dropping your cards in hand (easy with this deck; you'll blow through creatures pretty quick) and popping out a Balance. Your opponent is forced to discard down to what you have left in your hand—zero if Balance was your last card.

Finally, try sandbagging and surviving with only two lands for as long as you can. Let your opponent build up as many lands as he wants, and then—wham, hit 'im with Balance. It acts like a partial Armageddon.

My only caution to all of the above plays is to watch how many cards you have at all times. As the name implies, Balance is the Great Equalizer, but it can hurt you as well—never play it when you have the most creatures or lands, and always watch to see how many cards your opponent has in hand, or else you may end up having to drop a ton of great stuff when all is said and done.

Throw in Dark Spheres and Reverse Damages, thus preventing you from taking a colossal amount of damage from one source—like a Channel Fireball or a Blood-Lusted, Berserked beastie—and you have quite the defensive posture going.

Still, there are always dangers to playing a single-color deck. Once your opponent realizes that white is the only thing showing up (especially in a tournament), she'll be able to rig her deck to compensate. The big cards to worry about are Gloom, Flashfires, and creatures with protection from white, like the Black Knight.

Fortunately, this deck can deal with all of them. When playing black or heavy artifacts/enchantments, sideboard in your extra Disenchants to get to Gloom as soon as possible. Flashfires you'll just have to take on the chin—but as long as you're smart and hold an extra land in your hand, you should be able to bounce back pretty quickly with your low-casting-cost army. (I once won a tournament match after getting hit with both Gloom and Flashfires, so there is hope.) And the Black Knight goes down with a handy-dandy, no-creatures-on-your-side Balance.

White all by itself can be a killer. In my mind, it's strong enough to fly solo. White's so versatile on its own, and you're always drawing plains, so you rarely run into mana problems. In essence, you have a concentration of power that'll leave bad guys several feet under.

White's Mind Twist feature can be used to your advantage. Use it to discard your opponent's cards, or to discard your own cards to make your deck more powerful.

THEME DECK THE NON-KILLER DECK

Beat the Clock

The pure, cold sensation of terror. The kind that worms its way into your belly and loosens your bowels.

It's great fun. Especially when it's your opponent's bowels that are a-loosenin'. And that's what this deck is all about. Aside from the essentials that almost every deck needs—creature elimination, artifact destruction, and the rest—this unpleasant 60-card bad boy revolves around the cards with delayed effects. Instead of the strategy and subterfuge that go into most Magic games, your evil schemes will be laid bare for the world to see.

And that's the point. Your opponent will know what you're up to, but with the amount of headache cards you'll be spreading across the tabletop, it'll be one of the few instances where knowledge can be a bad thing.

Game Warden

By Matt Forbeck

Shootin' the breeze with TSR's creative head, Jim Ward.

For longtime gamers, there are few more-recognizable names than Jim Ward's. As vice president of creative services at TSR, the world's first and largest roleplaying game company, Ward's influence has been felt throughout the adventure game industry. A legendary game master and an ever-present icon at gaming conventions, he has been an integral part of TSR's creative vision for years.

Married with three children now, Ward was born and raised in Elkhorn, Wis., a mere seven miles away from TSR's headquarters. A prolific writer, he has worked on numerous games, including TSR's first collectible card game, Spellfire, which he co-created. We caught up with Jim one morning to talk with him about TSR and himself, past, present, and future.

New Stuff

What new directions is TSR moving in?

Come Thanksgiving, we're going to have a two-hour, made-for-TV movie called Wildspace....

Nelvana is going to do a two-hour animated cartoon on Dragonlance, a PG-13 feature film. They're shooting for December, but I'll believe it when I see it.

Hollywood has its own sense of time.

We're working on a couple other great, big computer ideas. We had the No. 1 coin-operated game this year—Tower of Doom—in fantasy, and Capcom's planning on doing another for next year.

We're into all sorts of media, from CD-ROMs to audio CDs and even on-line presences.... When you do a novel, a comic book, a card game, and a roleplaying game on the same subject, they breed more sales among each other. It happens every single time.

Here's a question I'm sure you've heard many times: How far along is the AD&D movie?

It's scheduled for '97. They have a script—it's wonderful. They have a producer and a director. We can't name names. That's Hollywood again, but Variety is already talking it up. That's definitely happening. It's just that the when of it is in question.

How do you think this exposure will affect TSR?

The name Dungeons & Dragons is known in 99 percent of all the families in the United States.... Lots of gamers are having lots of fun on the weekends, and moms and dads just throw pretzels and sodas at them and can't figure out what they're doing. When we do movies and cartoons, I think it helps legitimize the effort.

Collectible Card Games

When did you first hear of Magic: The Gathering?

Origins '93, just before it became famous. I saw a little company giving out free cards to their little card game, and nobody thought anything of it, and everybody walked right past them. They were all buying White Wolf's [Vampire: The Masquerade].

Then I didn't hear anything about them until Gen Con, and suddenly everybody was buying their stuff....

The game was a little complicated. The rules were terribly hard to read. I said, "OK, it's an interesting game. It should do well in the hobby." Who knew?

I've played a lot of Magic. I want to understand the system and what they're doing. I can see why it was a hit. It filled a niche. More and more, as we get deeper into the '90s, people don't want to spend time on games....

When it became a big deal after August, I started waving the red flag at TSR. "Let's get a game going here. Let's make it happen." Finally, in June [1994], we came out with Spellfire.

How do you see the future of collectible card games?

I often compare it to 1974, when the wargame market was so strong. Wargames were selling on every topic, and then roleplaying came out. Everyone said it was a passing fancy, and now there are almost no wargames, but roleplaying's still here.

We want to make sure that doesn't happen at TSR with this new, baby card-game market. We recognize that it's going to be a new category, but we aren't going to let roleplaying suffer for it.

Our marketing info says it's cutting into the comic book and sports card industries.... We had our best year last year.

Beyond Spellfire and Blood Wars, what's your favorite collectible card game?

I'm really looking forward to the Battletech and the Tolkien games.

I've played some Doomtrooper and enjoyed it. I play Magic all the time, and every time a new expansion comes out, I get the cards. I really like the variability of the game.

If card games can be extremely varied in how you put the cards together, that's a gigantic strength. All the games TSR designs will have that feature because it's too good to not include.

Spellfire

Did Spellfire come out as you envisioned it?

Exactly. I wanted a card game that was collectible, that had a wide variety of cards...and I wanted it to key into the [Advanced Dungeons & Dragons] system, because we have a lot of AD&D fans.

How popular is Spellfire compared to other collectible card games?

Spellfire, last year, was Waldenbook's biggest game seller, so in the book trade, we were gigantic. In every other trade, we placed second after Magic.

Magic is a wonderful phenomenon that is shaping a new industry. We've jumped on the bandwagon big-time.... We're not the phenom, but we're in there and making a name for ourselves.

It's a matter of presenting new material to the marketplace and seeing what consumers do with it. They do buy our cards, though there's a very vocal if-it's-not-Magic-it's-junk crowd out there. Some retailers and distributors are also in that crowd....

Any card game has to get over that initial stigma. Every Star Trek fan in the world bought the first-edition Star Trek cards. It didn't matter what the game was like, and that's fine. We traded in on our AD&D-ness....

I play all the card games at least once, so I know what I like, and what's good and what isn't about what's going on out there. I'm positive that Spellfire and Blood Wars—the rules and the way we put the game together—are the equal of any competition out there.

"We recognize that [collectible card games are] going to be a new category, but we aren't going to let roleplaying suffer for it."

— Jim Ward

How does the fact that it's as easy to use high-powered cards as low-powered ones affect Spellfire's balance?

Our object is to bring out lots of interesting things quickly, and get them. It's a faster-paced game.

There are interesting cards out there that can balance any card.... There is no single combination, or even three or four combinations, that will give you a guaranteed win. The balances and checks of the game are such that we don't ever have a problem with powerful cards coming out that no one can do anything about.

Is Spellfire a game in which someone who spends a lot of money on the game has a big advantage?

Absolutely not. Every single booster increases the difficulty and interest of the game. People that have Ravenloft, Forgotten Realms, or Dragonlance cards will do much better than people who just have the basic set because we're constantly putting new levels into the game.

There have been some complaints about Spellfire's artwork all being recycled.

TSR art is the best in the industry. I can understand the collector who doesn't want to see the same piece of art used; he's collecting for individual pictures. But a gamer should love that art. It's hot; it's fun.

We don't get complaints about art from the gamer. We do get it from the collector. They have their point of view, and it's very valid. We love collectors because they buy whole [point-of-purchase displays].

We fixed that in Blood Wars with almost entirely original art, and we'll continue to do that. But in Spellfire, we want to use art from things that the gamers know. We don't think it's a detriment.

There have also been complaints about printing the edition on the card back.

We've had gigantic debates about this.... Everybody in this marketplace is trying new things. We just want to make sure that the convention every quarter for a year and a half, and then we go on to other things.

Why's that?

One of the aspects of card games is the collectibility. If you stop printing it, then something becomes more collectible.

Look at the bigger companies, the Milton Bradleys and the Parker Brothers. Most of their games have a one-year lifecycle, and then you have to go to collector shops to get the products.

This [finite lifecycle] is an unusual thing for the marketplace, and we think it's

"There's never been a collectible dice game. In Dragon Dice, you can build your own armies, much in the way that miniaturists build armies with toy soldiers."

— Jim Ward on Dragon Dice

collector never feels gypped and is never confused about the cards he's getting

Blood Wars and Beyond And now you have Blood Wars.

In Planescape, we have literally millions of creatures and interesting battle scenarios. That's what Blood Wars keys into: fighting in the planes.

So far, we've had tremendous success. We sold out before we shipped, and that's always a nice feeling.

How was the process different from Spellfire's?

Basically, the Spellfire game came out very quickly, and it was a game that we aimed at all of our AD&D audience. The Blood Wars game we aimed at primarily our Planescape audience, that we have thousands and thousands of players of. Because of that, we had a smaller focus, and I think a smaller focus gave the game better play.

What future plans do you have for Blood Wars and Spellfire?

Spellfire we end this year. We have a two-year cycle on our card games: we give 'em two years and put out expansions every quarter. In Blood Wars' case, we're gonna have a healthy. We're continually looking over that ridge for the next big thing.

Dragon Dice

Tell us more about Dragon Dice.

It's due out in August. In Dragon Dice, you roll dice, and each die is an army of creatures in a fantasy world. You're trying to take over land chunks in the form of dice. It's a fast game of dice rolling. There's over 90 different kinds of dice, and each box has 18 dice, so you get a different set of dice with every box.

It's an expandable game. You can have a whole dwarf army or an elf army or whatever. The expandability and the rolling of

DRAGON DICE

TSR's latest game could be a hit—especially if players can find a way to store thousands of dice and still have room to breathe.

the dice, we think, is going to be a real popular theme through the end of the year.

You're planning expansions for that too.

Absolutely. The first kicker pack is an expansion of monsters and humans. The second features lava elves, and the third has a collection of undead creatures. So we've got lots going in the dice area.

How did Dragon Dice evolve from an idea into a reality?

Last year, a man came to us from Europe with an interesting dice concept. You could pop out the face of the die and plug in new faces. We thought that had interesting game possibilities. We talked to him about doing a game, but we couldn't resolve philosophical differences. We said, "OK, we can't have removable dice faces. Let's do a dice game without removable faces."

So Dragon Dice was born, going from an interesting dice idea to a normal dice idea with a new twist to it. There's never been a collectible dice game. In Dragon Dice, you can build your own armies, much in the way that miniaturists build armies with toy soldiers.

Why do you think it's going to be a popular game?

It has card elements in it in putting together your own army. It has miniatures elements in it, so it's going to appeal to the miniaturist. It's a fun fantasy game—it plays really quick—and people love to roll dice.

History

How did you get involved with TSR?

I met Gary in '74, and he taught me how to play D&D. I said, "Gary, we have to have a science fiction version of this." He said, "Well, why don't you write it?" So I did, and Metamorphosis Alpha, the first science fiction roleplaying game, was born....

Until 1980, I did developmental and editing work for TSR while I was teaching history and English at a small high school... In 1980, I started with TSR and did lots of freelance projects for them while working in the sales department, then the book department, and then in marketing.

In 1984, I left TSR for a while. During that time, we invented the one-on-one book. This allows two people to play a game together while they read their books....

I came back in '86 into R&D [research and development]. From then till now, I've been in R&D and into marketing, and now I'm head of the R&D group again.... It's where I think I belong.

How has TSR changed since its early days?

It's a business now. We don't do products anymore just because we love them.... There were a lot of wargame and roleplaying products that were done that should have never been done.

We want to appeal to as many people as we can when we make products.... It's our greatest strength because we do not do things that upset parents, but it's a weakness because there's an element of players out there that we don't get because they think we're too Walt Disneyish.... We don't tell them how to roleplay. We just present products that aren't as hard-edged as some of our competition's.

You write novels these days.

Too many to count off the top of my head. My latest trilogy—the Pool [of Radiance] books based onSSI's computer games of the same names—came out last year, and they've just been translated into Japanese and French. All the others were game books. My first was Light on Quest Mountain, a Gamma World game book. I did a Conan, a Marvel Wolverine one, and lots of others.

What kind of books would you like to write in the future?

I really like holocaust stories, so I know there's a couple novels there that I have to do. My big dream is to do—and this sounds really silly—an Arthurian legend trilogy that doesn't have an unhappy ending.... All that bad stuff happened, but then there's another chapter yet to be seen where Arthur grabs Guinevere out of that convent that she's in.

TSR Today

How did TSR grow into the corporate juggernaut it is today?

We hear what the fans are wanting and what they're liking and not liking, and we respond to them. That's probably the biggest factor.

We're also lucky in that we were the first.... Some people have grown up playing our material, and now they're teaching their sons and daughters to play, too.

Exactly how does TSR stay in touch with its fans?

We do a little bit of everything. We do lots of conventions where we send our designers and editors and our sales and marketing people out to work the conventions and do seminars and talk to the people....

We're on three different on-line systems. On America Online, we have our own big bulletin board area. We believe bulletin boards are a big deal...so we're getting more of a major presence there.

Fans love to write us, and we read every single letter that comes into this building.... We're doing five hardbounds this year, and that's how they were made: by reading the letters from people saying, "We do this in our game. Why don't you guys do it, too?"

What sort of games do the employees play?

At lunch time right now, they're playing Axis and Allies, and they're playing some Star Frontiers—that's an old game that we did. They're playing a lot of Blood Wars and Magic: The Gathering.

I really encourage my people to look at other people's products. We want to stay ahead of the competition, and the only way to do that is to know what they're doing.

What's the atmosphere at TSR like?

It's pretty friendly and open.... We have all the editors and designers upstairs in Cubeland, as we call it because each one has their own cube. Each group gets together once a week for meetings, and after the meetings, they have play-test sessions in which they play-test either their products or other people's products....

[TSR President] Lorraine Williams is very concerned about morale. Creative people are sensitive souls. They need a lot of care and attention, just like flowers, and they get it here.

"We are hardly ever late with product, and we're never late with major product. That's one thing that keeps us far ahead of the competition."

— Jim Ward

From the deepest dungeons to the furthest planes, adventure in TSR's countless worlds.

What are your favorite games to play?

I really like Battletech from FASA. I really like Metamorphosis Alpha, but I hardly ever get to play it any more. I'm playing an awful lot of Spellfire right now.... There's a computer game called Stronghold, that our licensee SSI put out, that I've wasted far too many hours on. And there's a board game called Quo Vadis, which is kind of a political, fast-talking game, and I've played hours of that.

Jim's Job

What's your job at TSR?

As of August '94, I'm vice president of creative services. Creative services here at TSR is our R&D group.

I'm responsible for the schedules and for the TSR line. Every year at TSR, we have a line review for the next year or the year after. In May, we're going to review the products we want to do for 1997.... We try to make products that will interest people in the year or years to come. We got done with '96 in December, and we're starting to write those products now.

Do you brainstorm for new ideas, or is your job to bring other people's products to fruition?

TSR has product groups, each in charge of certain trademarks. Tim [Brown] watches these groups to make sure their products come out on time. I watch them to make sure the products are as creatively interesting as possible.

We are hardly ever late with product, and we're never late with major product. That's one thing that keeps us far ahead of the competition.

What's a typical day like for you?

Today, I've got a lot of questions to answer about Spellfire, and I have to work on the rules for Dragon Dice.

Dragon Dice is our big new game for August, and we want the game to appeal to a wide audience, so right now we're working on the vocabulary of the game. We did a reading-level review, and it was 12th-grade reading level. That's quite high for a game.

Milton Bradley works for a 7-year-old's reading level when they do their rules. We want it to be about ninth grade.... You're not talking down to your people, but the rules then become easier to read.

No one these days wants to spend a lot of time reading rules. They want to read the rules for 20 minutes, and then they want to play the game.

Competition

Wizards of the Coast has had amazing success. How does it feel to have a true competitor?

We love competition. It spurs us on to greater efforts. For a long time, we didn't have any, and we unfortunately still don't have any competition in roleplaying. This tells us that this new category is a force to be reckoned with, and we have to work a little harder and maybe in new ways to keep the attention centered where it belongs.

TSR has no competitors in roleplaying?

I didn't mean to say that—it sounds really egotistical. Our sales are stronger than anyone else's, but I think there's a lot of competition in terms of quality. There are five or six companies out there whose best is as good as our best.

How has TSR managed to stay ahead of the competition?

We've spent a great deal of time, money, and marketing questing, if you will, to find out what that new gamer is like and needs. We believe if we get 100,000 people to buy a game, we'll get 50,000 of those to continue playing. Ten years down the road, we'll have 10,000 still playing and buying games....

We have seven different fantasy trademarks.... You're casting your line out with different kinds of bait to appeal to different kinds of people.

Anyone who likes horror has a good chance of liking our gothic horror line, Ravenloft. Forgotten Realms is our heroic, hack-and-slash world where you bash down the door, you kill the monster, and you find the treasure. Dragonlance is kind of our high soap-opera game in which honor and glory mean much more than treasure.

Last question: What's the most exciting prospect that's still in the initial stages of development?

How can I do this and not give anything away to the competition?

A new form of roleplaying, based on an old TSR trademark, that we're going to have come out in '96. It will allow you to roleplay in a whole new interesting way that's never been seen before.

The Magic computer game should be nontransferable, but hooking up an external CD-ROM drive to your computer could really byte. All entries must be received at contest headquarters by July 31, 1995. Wizard Press is not responsible for lost, late, misdirected, or mutilated entries. Odds of winning will be determined by the number of valid entries received prior to the closing date of the contest. The winner will be chosen on August 15, 1995, by Wizard Press. All decisions are final, so don't give us no lip or nuthin'! For a list of winners, available after August 15, 1995, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to MicroProse Magic Winners, c/o Wizard Press, 151 Wells Ave., Congers, NY 10920-2064, or just keep watching InQuest!

Fallen Angel

Though all movies with Madonna in 'em suck, we've got faith that the Material Girl could play the Fallen Angel to a tee.

Demonic Tutor

The bad boy depicted on that oh-so-useful Demonik Tutor card makes his mark on the big screen courtesy of William Sadler, whom we saw as the Grim Reaper in Bill & Ted's Bogus Journey and more recently as the hero from the very underrated Tales From the Crypt.
Demonik Tutor

El-Hajjaj

The turban-wearin', stoic-lookin' El-Hajjaj would be played by Maximilian Schell, who starred in The Black Hole and The Chosen.

Aarathi Berserker

"Snap into a Slim Jim!" Playing the part of the rampaging Aarathi Berserker is the smoked-beef-lovin' pro wrestler Randy "Macho Man" Savage.

Ex-M.A.S.H. cast member and Mars bar lover Jamie Farr would pick up the robes of the "Must...attack...every...turn!" Erg Raider.

Fire Elemental

Who better to play the fiery Fire Elemental than the blisteringly hot Morgan Fairchild, whom you know best from her roles on the steamy TV soap Hammings Road and the film The Seduction.

Hasran Ogress

Though it's not what you'd call a plum role, Cheers' Carlo, aka Rhea Perlman, would make a perfect Hasran Ogress.

Boris Devlboon

The legendary Boris Devlboon comes to life thanks to Ruben Blades. You know him from Predator 2 and The Super.

Infernal Medusa

The Medusa was said to be so ugly its gaze would turn you to stone. Well, Baywatch star Pamela Anderson is so beautiful her gaze will, uh, turn you to stone. Bingo!

"Huh, yo, yoose guys spoiled genie wrong." Mmm-hmm. The role of the "Hands you win, tails you lose" Mike Dinn goes to Sylvester Stallone, whom we all know and love as Rocky, Rambo, and, more recently, Judge Dredd.

Scarwood Hag

Best known for her roles in The Beverly Hills Cop and a bunch of Mel Brooks movies, we chose Cloris Leachman to tackle the role of the highly underused Scarwood Hag. (Boy, if they were fans before, Rhea Perlman and Cloris Leachman sure ain't InQuest fans now.)

Sengir Vampire

Playing the very awesome (and very bald) Sengir Vampire is the way-cool Ben Kingsley, known widely as Gandhi, and more recently seen in Dave and Death and the Maiden.

Syphon Soul

One of the most useful cards in multiplayer Magic comes to life courtesy of Nicholas Cage, whom you recall from his roles in Honeymoon in Vegas and Moonstruck.

And that wraps up our little Magic: The Gathering movie production. If you had as much fun readin' this stuff as we had slappin' it together, jot a note and let us know.

After all, what's a great flick without a sequel? (Highlander notwithstanding.)

Knowing that oatmeal is the right thing to do and a tasty way to do it, the InQuest staff does "it" a lot.

Money for Nothing?

Can Magic cards replace U.S. currency?

By John Seals

Photos by

Jim and Mary Zubrzycki

(enough consonants for ya, buddy?)

The McBurger's manager is not impressed by John's plight. John ups the ante, to no avail.

Uncle John's Patented Side Note™ No. 1:

I know the phrase "real world" is scary for all you game players out there, but sometimes it isn't bad. If you spend enough time in the "real world," you might meet a nice girl or something. Try it!

Some people will do anything for a buck. Across the river from me, in Minneapolis, there's a guy who, for a fee, will pick up all the dog poop from your yard each week. I, on the other hand, have high standards when it comes to what I'll do for cash. So when the frenzied folks at InQuest said, more or less, "Hey Seals, do ya wanna make a fool out of yourself? We'll pay ya!," of course I accepted. I mean, a big guy like me's gotta eat.

The deal is this: those Magic: The Gathering cards you're holding in your little fingers are gaining value like crazy. Prices of some of these little beauties are over the "magic" $100 mark. The staff at InQuest wondered, and got me to find out, if these values meant anything in the "real world."

I was to take a bunch of Magic cards around to different businesses, accompanied by hard-working—and slightly embarrassed, I'm sure—photogs Jim and Mary Zubrzycki (pronounced Smith), and see if anyone would trade real goods and services. I give you a Goblin Balloon Brigade, you give me a hot dog. Got it? Good, let's do it.

The first place we tried was the neighborhood McBurger's. It was early, and we were thirsty, so I decided to see if I could pick up three hot cups of coffee in exchange for three cards with a market value of about a dollar each. Since a cup of joe was about 69 cents American, I figured we were a shoo-in. Wrong.

As soon as Jim and Mary pulled out the SLRs (their cameras, game boys), the Mickey B employees freaked. In about 15 seconds, a manager was upon me demanding an explanation.

"Why?" he asked.

I was stumped. But I managed to stutter out an explanation anyway.

He just smiled at me.

"OK, I'll up the ante," I said nervously. "Two $1 cards for each cup of coffee. And I promise not to sue you guys if I spill it."

"Why?" he asked again.

I tried my best to explain the subtle nuances of what I was trying to achieve. He didn't budge. Frustrated, we headed down the street to Burger Palace.

Burger Palace may have beat McBurger's in recent taste tests—although I can't figure out why these so-called "taste tests" never track down a real burger chomper like me for an opinion—but Burger Palace is no more interested in trading Magic cards for java than McBurger's. This time, we avoided the manager, but the cashier, wearing Madonna's concert radio headset, was not in the mood to barter.

"I don't think so," he said.

"But there's Remove Enchantments and Reverse Polarity cards here," I implored.

"I don't collect them, and that'll be $2.79 for the coffee."

"But what if I spill that hot coffee by accident," I said, raising my eyebrows knowingly.

"Sorry, not interested."

I paid up with real greenbacks and we moved on.

Just so the rest of you know, out here in Minnesota the winters are rough. We do a lot of things indoors, like baseball, football, and even soccer (shudder). One of the other things we're forced to do indoors is tan. When you only get about 45 minutes of sun a year, you do what you gotta do.

So we sauntered over to Ray's Tanning Salon, prepared to wheel and deal for some of those precious ultraviolet rays

GROO

A seemingly sure hotbed for Magic lovers, the local convenience store once again stymies John and his weary travelers.

Nobody said it was going to be easy. Cards in hand, John sits curbside pondering his next move.

Hey, I can see through things!

that are so rare in the Great Northwest.

Phil, the amiable clerk, was taken aback by all the photo equipment Jim and Mary had and by their less-than-successful attempt to appear nonchalant in the roughly 6-foot-by-6-foot office.

(Hey, don't worry, people's names have been changed to protect us from legal hassles.)

Phil was sort of confused by the whole deal.

"A magazine about cards?" he asked.

"Not just about cards but gaming too," I amplified.

Nice as he was, Phil couldn't trade any tanning, even when I offered a Mind Twist, value $6, for a half-hour of tanning, value $4.50 plus tax. He did show me a tanning bed and let me try on some cool yellow goggles, though.

On the way out, I tried to stuff a Fungusaur card into one of those "on your honor" candy displays in order to score a pack of M & Ms, but the slot was too small.

We were beginning to think no one would trade these cards for anything of value. I thought about offering a Helm of Chazuk to a guy we saw drinking from a brown paper sack at a bus stop, then decided that this was a line I didn't want to cross. Yet.

Next, we strolled into a neighborhood corner convenience store, the kind usually staffed by pimply, overweight high school students. I figured—and don't take offense here, gentle reader—these guys would be likely to trade for Magic cards!

To my chagrin, the cashier was an older, sour-faced lady who wasn't interested in swapping an Air Elemental for a couple of packages of "low-fat" (yeah...right) Twinkies.

She was aided in her refusal by her husband, who was, in my humble estimation, about 350 pounds. There was also some other smelly guy in an even smellier trench coat who looked ready to pull out an Uzi and spray the place with bullets at any moment. Geez, isn't the post office open on Saturdays?

Discouraged, we analyzed our strategy. Where could we go to find people likely to know what Magic cards were? A place where the clientele would appreciate what we were trying to do. A place where game heads would drool at the chance to get their mitts on the hottest thing since nine-sided dice...

"The arcade!" I shouted. "Let's go to the arcade!"

So we went to a mall. Since certain things are best forgotten—our visit to this mall being one of them—we'll just call it Anymall, located somewhere in Anytown, Minn.

When we arrived at the Anytown Arcade, Brian, the incredibly crabby and apparently angst-ridden clerk, was not only rude but practical as well.

"Trade cards for tokens? Even if I could I wouldn't. Tokens aren't real money either."

As Jim and Mary snapped away, he started waving his arms. "I don't want my picture in no damn magazine, either!" he added.

It was this commotion, along with the popping flash bulbs, that attracted the mall's resident 4-foot-6-inch security guard. He came up to me and asked what I was doing. I squinted at his battered nameplate, but the only letter I could make out was "L." After hearing my story, he decided it was time to enforce an obscure mall ordinance.

"You're going to have to leave," he said between mumbles into his walkie-talkie. "No photographs without prior management approval."

"You're kidding me," I protested.

"No, I'm not," he said, fingering his can of Mace.

We gathered up our gear and walked, heads down, to the parking lot.

Looking dejectedly at Mary and Jim, I opined, "I must be the oldest guy in history ever to get kicked out of an arcade."

Both of them had a look in their eyes that seemed to say, "I wonder if we can renegotiate our price for this?"

Our next stop was Computerville, where the clerks were more worried that our pictures had caught one of them without a tie and that their boss might see it.

"Relax, does your boss read InQuest?" I asked.

"Starquest?" said the clerk.

"No, InQuest, InnnQuest," I replied, beginning to wonder if it wasn't too late for me to renegotiate my fee.

"I guess not," said the tieless guy nervously.

"See, nothing to worry about," I replied. "What do ya say, one Jandor's Ring and one Jandor's Saddlebags, street value 20 bucks, for that funky pink Itza Remote universal remote?"

"No can do," he said.

"What if I up the ante? I'll throw in an Orcish Artillery and a free Resurrection," I countered, figuring anybody can use a free Resurrection.

"You could try all day and I still couldn't do it," he said, adjusting his tie.

"Is that a clip-on?" I asked.

Six places and absolutely no one was willing to give me anything. Could it be that these cards have no real value? Could it be that price guide prices are bogus? Could it be that you should play the game, trade the cards, and forget about how much they're worth? Say, is that Orc General green?

Our next stop was Old Mildew's, a fine local bookstore that actually sold Magic cards. Craig, the store manager, recognized the cards immediately and offered to trade.

"A Jandor's Saddlebags and a Jandor's Ring... huh," he said, staring at the cards. "Yeah, I'll trade you for...uhhh...this sack of POGs!"

I was taken aback. If there's anything I think of as worthless in this world, it's discarded milk bottle caps. Why not collect old embossed napkins? Sheesh.

But this was no time to get high and mighty. "Deal," I said, elated to be able to make a trade. Walking outside, fingering my huge sack of POGs, I realized I'd just gotten my nephew's birthday present. At no charge! I started rethinking my stance on both Magic cards and POGs.

Maybe our luck had changed. I strolled into a floor-covering shop, Floor Furnishings, and began haggling with sales consultant Mitch over a particularly nice-looking 12-inch-by-12-inch piece of kitchen ceramic tile. The tile cost $5.49, so I proposed a swap for a $6 Lurker card. To my surprise, Mitch accepted.

"Sure," he said looking at the card.

Since I can't pass up a bargain, I immediately offered Mitch the whole box if he'd remodel the bathroom at my house.

He politely refused, but agreed to pose for a triumphant victory shot with me.

Flushed with success, I asked Mitch if he knew anybody else who would be "stupid, err, uh, willing" to trade stuff for cards.

"Try Derrick over at the Quick-Signs store," he suggested.

Burdened with all our booty, we trundled into QuickSigns. Derrick was reluctant to help us out, but, in the Minnesota tradition, was too nice actually to refuse.

He had some poignant commentary on the real value of Magic cards, though. "Let me see if I have any junk around here to trade you," he said, going through a stack of posters.

He came up with a sign that said "Twin Cities."

Our hero, John, gets hassled by the Man and some lame, no-fun punk we call Brian.

Uncle John's Patented Side Note™ No. 2:

OK, kids. This just goes to show you that the world is full of cranky jerkwipes like Brian and his buddy "L." The best thing you can do is just ignore them. Or figure out a way to piss them off even more in return. So the least I can do is convince the InQuest staff to run Brian the arcade attendant's picture anyway. Hey

Brian, lighten up!

Feeling the heat after five strikeouts and near incarceration, John heads to Computerville.

POGs! My Magic cards are worth a sack of POGs?!

"What's it worth to ya, Derrick?" I asked. I sensed the opportunity to make a real deal.

"Nothing, really, the guy who ordered it never came in and picked it up."

I settled on a Wall of Water; Derrick was reluctant to take home "weird ones" to his kids.

It was all downhill from there. Used sports equipment store Dusty Sports refused to swap any number of cards for a cool old catcher's mitt or even a dirty old bike helmet.

"I heard about these cards on the news," said Keith from behind the register. "Some kid in Minneapolis got beat up for these."

It's a sure thing those little hooligans never tried to swap the cards anywhere.

Nearby liquor store The Vineyards also balked at trading cards for anything. Even a $5.79 bottle of Tott's champagne was out of the question.

"No way," manager Joanna said, snatching it from my hands. "I want my champagne back."

"But they're worth a lot of money," I argued.

"Not to me they aren't," Joanna snorted. And so it goes.

We learned several things from our little exercise.

First of all, in the day-to-day world of business, your Magic cards ain't worth diddly. No matter what the price guides say.

Secondly, some stores, and store managers, are too tight-assed to have a little fun.

Finally, if you collect Magic cards and play the game, more power to you. It looks kind of wild to me and I think it might be fun. Don't let anybody tell you it isn't. These cards are meant to be fun. Got it?

John Seals admits to having played Dungeons & Dragons, but more recently lost in Rusk to his girlfriend Pam.

Derrick plays along and offers us some worthless sign. "Deal!" we shout.

John makes his pitch, but Joanna isn't biting. To be honest, few did.

Transmogrify This

Peculiar and powerful uses for some of Magic's more versatile cards.

The element of surprise. It's the most important part of Magic: The Gathering (next to having fun and not being a pompous ass). But in a day and age with herds of Magic players who can recite from memory every card by color, casting cost, and power, it seems harder and harder to catch your opponents with their pants down.

Perhaps you're not looking at your Magic cards the way you should be. Odds are you've seen many cards played only one way—but that isn't necessarily the only way to use those cards.

While some Magic cards are better than others, the best cards have multiple uses. One of the most underused cards—despite being superuseful and versatile—is Ashnod's Transmogrant. It's a neat li'l one-casting-cost artifact from Antiquities; tap and sacrifice it to make a target non-artifact creature an artifact creature with a +1/+1 counter until the end of the game.

Sound neat? It is. Yet in those rare instances when I've seen it used, it's always used prematurely and comes nowhere near its full potential. A player will cast it, then immediately sacrifice it to boost a creature. Mildly effective, but oh so predictable.

Since its ability can be used as a fast effect, don't use it right away unless you desperately need it. Let it sit. Your opponent should promptly forget about that "stupid" card. And that's when the fun begins.

Now think about it. The Transmogrant's power is a fast effect, and can target almost any creature. If used properly, this card can be the death knell for your opponent! At any time, a non-artifact creature can become a +1/+1 artifact creature! Think of the possibilities!

"Ummm...I can make my Serra a 5/5 and attack. That's good, right?"

No. Well, yeah, a 5/5 Serra's good, but too predictable. Your opponent will see it coming and begin planning her demise. To get the most bang for your buck, examine all the properties of the mighty Transmogrant.

TIMING IS EVERYTHING

During combat, after blocking has been declared but before damage has been assigned, transmogrify your creature and add an unexpected +1/+1 to your critter. If used correctly, that should toast your opponent's blocker and keep your creature alive.

Someone just Terror your creature? A fast-effect response that turns your creature into an artifact creature (i.e., immune to Terrors) means your opponent just wasted a very clutch spell.

PRESTO CHANGE-O

Now that your creature is an artifact, what new and exciting things can it do? Well, think about spells that deal with artifacts.

Now that your, say, Serra is an artifact creature, you could Copy Artifact her. Can you say two 5/5 untapping flyers? Both could be healed by the Argivian Blacksmith. Somebody tries to Disenchant one? Just Hurkyl's Recall 'em back to your hand. You'll lose the Transmogrant effect, but Serra'll live to fight again. And what about that nasty Abyss spell? Sacrifice a non-artifact creature every turn? I think not. Ashnod's Transmogrant gets around that, too!

SHARE AND SHARE ALIKE

But hey, the Transmogrant can target any creature—so why not throw it on your opponent's creature?

"But that'd give him a +1/+1 bonus!"

Hey, relax. You'd only do it if you had an ace up your sleeve. Now you can Disenchant or Crumble that trouble-maker, tap it with a Relic Barrier, destroy it with a Scavenger Folk, COP: Artifact it when it attacks—or, best of all, cast Steal Artifact and swipe it. What fun. And your opponent will never see it coming!

THE REPORT CARD

Now do you see why this card is so great? Since it's an artifact, it can fit into virtually any deck, it has a superlow casting cost, it's incredibly useful by itself, and when combined with the effects of other useful cards, it becomes devastating. Overall, an A+ card.

And Ashnod's Transmogrant is only one card. If you sit down and carefully explore all the powers of certain cards, your opponent should find a once-familiar game taking some dangerous, exciting new turns.

■ Hope Ashnod never had any pet ham-

sters...

HEARTBREAKER'S INQUISITION™

INQUISITION™, the first expansion for Doomtrooper™, is designed to take the game into some new directions. It will center around the most powerful forces in the universe, the Brotherhood and the Dark Legion. Most of the cards will have a link to these organisations, but are designed to please those who have specialized in any one of the corporations.

Inquisition will also introduce a new card category—RELICS—ancient objects and artifacts that hold tremendous powers. There will also be new personalities from all of the corporations (including the Supreme Cardinal of the Brotherhood and all five Dark Apostles), new vehicles, new equipment and more!

Besides new game play features, there's also other enhancements. LIMITED EDITION, GOLD FOIL packaging, over 100 new cards and randomly inserted cards signed by some of the top Doomtrooper artists will be included throughout the world-wide print run.

Inquisition booster packs will contain 8 cards each and there will be 60 booster packs per display.

MAKE IT SO!

Be the weird, cool, gross, and something-for-everybody!

How true. If you want to get your grubby paws on that most excellent bridge crew set, you've gotta dig up the weirdest Star Trek memorabilia on the planet, photograph it, and send the picture in to us. No Polaroids, please—and remember to focus! If you're no Ansel Adams, you can send us an ad picturing the product. Hell, we'll even take shots of vaguely Star Trek-related items like William Shatner record albums and DeForest Kelley home enema kits. There's only two rules: it has to be weird, and it has to be a real product. No homemade junk.

So after you've scoured the planet photographing the cream of the weird Star Trek crap crop, fill out the Official Trek Drack InQuest Contest Entry Form, attach it to the back of the picture or ad, and mail that baby off to the address down yonder. Then pitch a tent and wait.

"IF I COULD WIN THIS SET, PERHAPS SOON WOULD BE THE DAY I DEFEAT THE FOUL-SMELLING PICARD. I MUST SURVIVON MY AID TO RETRIEVE MY CAMERA."

"YANICK, MY FRIEND, IF WE COULD GET THE COMPLETE SET, WE WOULD BE FEARED ACROSS THE UNIVERSE FOR THE WALNUT-SHAPED MOOSEHEADS FROM THE SEA THAT WE ARE."

"OOOOH TO HAVE THAT BRIDGE CREW SET, WWWWWW IT'S SOOO HOT!"

GRAND PRIZE (ONE WINNER)

One grand prize winner walks away with a set of the Star Trek: The Next Generation bridge crew from the Star Trek: The Next Generation Customizable Card Game white-bordered edition from Decipher. You get Picard, Riker, Geordi, Crusher, Data, Troi, Worf, and (sooyuch) Wesley. Heck, we'll even throw in the Enterprise D-card so your crew won't explode in the cold, lifeless void of space.

THE Mishra-Urza WAR.

The brothers
bash it out with artifacts from a lost age.

By Michael Searle

Mishra and Urza knew, not love, only hate. Trained by the sorceress Tocasia in the Kher Ridges of Argive, the brothers grew up as rivals. Though equally endowed with magic, each craved what the other possessed, and more.

As they grew older and surpassed their mentor's abilities, the brothers moved out into the world, seeking more and more power. Urza enslaved the eastern half of the kingdom, including the cities of Kroog and Tonia, and enlisted the aid of his powerful apprentice Tawnos and his former teacher Tocasia. Not to be outdone, Mishra conquered the western half of the continent, from the city of Zagon to the College of Lat-Nam, allying himself with his lover Ashnod and the scholar Horkyl.

Ironically, the brothers' showdown took place in neither's domain. The Isle of Argoth paid the final, cataclysmic price. To this day, Argoth's devastation stands as a lasting testament to the brothers' hatred—but legend has it that their fates were never determined.

Perhaps their lives remain entwined, and they struggle endlessly among the plains of the Multiverse. Two brothers of the same flesh, living only to see the other's death...

cost all players the same amount of resources—except you, who lose resources for casting the spell and from suffering its effects.

Counterspell, Mana Short, Paralyze, Power Leak, and so on are all great spells that waste your opponents' precious resources. Watch out for artifacts and enchantments with high activation costs. Jayemdae Tome may get you that extra card, but it gobbles up four resources each time it's used.

Ending the Game: If for some reason, all remaining players run out of resources, then the land has been laid to waste and the game is a draw. More likely, the game will end as soon as Mishra or Urza are killed. Once your Emperor is dethroned, your kingdom has fallen.

A Fourth of a Seller's Market

Costly Magic powerhouses return.

The Magic Fourth Edition is out.

The Shivan Dragon and Serra Angel are still in. So's the Bottle of Suleiman. But what cards were reinstated? Nobody thought they'd bring back so many—and what they took out may surprise you.

Black

Wizards of the Coast evidently tried to give each color its most powerful creatures, and this is most evident in black. Carrion Ants (+1/+1 with any color mana) is arguably the best creature in the game, which explains the original's $30-$35 price.

Other huge returning creatures are Cosmic Horror (pre-Fourth value: $11), tied with Lord of the Pit for biggest black creature, and with first strike no less; and Arabian Nights' useful Junun Efreet ($16), a low-cost flying 3/3.

All reprinted cards will lose value, perhaps as much as one-third to one-half. Who'd want to blow $35 on a Legends Carrion Ants except a die-hard collector? Even so, remember that the Shivan Dragon, available in the Revised and Fourth Editions, still goes for $15 or so.

It looks like WotC was hit hard by criticism from old ladies groups upset about satanic references, so gone are Demonic Hordes, Demonic Tutor (I), Contract from Below, Demonic Attorney, and the pentagram on Unholy Strength. Watch for the price on Demonic Tutor to move near $6. It gives you any card from your library, and I've never seen a black deck without it.

Blue

The big creatures returning for blue are a little weird. Time Elemental (pre-Fourth value: $35) lets you unsummon your opponent's permanents. This creature was custom-made for blue's manipulative style.

The Leviathan ($9) from the recent Dark requires the sacrifice of two islands to untap or attack with it. That's probably partly why WotC reinstated Twiddle ($6), allowing users to tap or untap anything. Since Twiddle is now common, watch the earlier version's price plummet.

For variety's sake, the nearly useless Sindre ($10) returns.

Not so useless were the discontinued Clone and Vesuvan Doppelganger. They helped impart a unique, enjoyable flavor, and I think blue is weaker overall without them. Watch for the Doppelganger to hit $20 soon.

Green

Killer Bees (pre-Fourth value: $28) are back! A flying creature (rare in green) that's pumpable with green mana must be in any green deck.

Will the Elven Riders ($12) become new favorites for the greenies? Probably not. Useful 3/3s that can only be blocked by walls and flyers, their casting cost is high.

The Fourth Edition Fog only stops combat damage, whereas the Revised Fog also stopped effects like death-by-Basilisk. We'll all want the old one, but since there are billions out there, don't expect the price to rise.

Most will miss Regrowth, but I'm tired of people getting their Time Walks back. Good riddance.

Red

The fun-to-play Ball Lightning (pre-Fourth value: $12) will have a strong fan following, since it's a short-lived trampling creature that can attack when first summoned (and then dies). The Crimson Manticore ($11) is a pinger, and will be desirable as well. Since Blood Lust ($10) is a commoner now, expect its price to plunge.

Move fast to get the now-discontinued Fork ($15) if you don't have one. Everyone needs its ability to copy any instant or sorcery. Much-sought-after before being cut, its price probably won't sit in the low teens for long.

We'll also miss the 3/3 flying Roc of Kher Ridges, the Kird Ape (apparently too much creature at too little cost for WotC), and the giant Rock Hydra.

White

WotC brought back white's second-biggest creature, the Elder Land Wurm (pre-Fourth value: $13). Everyone likes a 5/5, but this Wurm has a very high casting cost in a color known for weenies, and can't attack until it blocks. Try Angry Mob ($4): it gets bigger on your turn if your opponents have swamps. It can be even stronger with a Magical Hack.

White is arguably the most powerful color, but I guess it wasn't strong enough for WotC! They brought back Spirit Link ($19), giving you life for each point of damage the target creature deals; and Divine Transformation ($16), +3/+3 to creatures (wow!); and the exotic COP: Artifacts ($13).

Kids can see

but Devil forbid

Artifacts and Lands

The neatest artifact creatures are back. The 9/9 Colossus of Sardia (pre-Fourth value: $20) is smaller than only Leviathan, and is back, along with the scary Triskelion ($13), which can ping three times, and the weird Tetravus ($16), a flyer that can split off into other flyers.

Most expected the discontinuation of the Sol Ring—too much mana too fast. Expect a modest price increase; like the Demonic Tutor, everyone needs one. The Fellwar Stone can't fill its shoes. We're also sad to see the Juggernaut ($2) go. Get some.

We all love to play with Strip Mines ($7), since they're good for destroying Mazes of Ith, and the Oasis' ($6) healing ability is useful, but we've lost the most important lands of all: the dual lands ($6-$7 each). Since it's very difficult to play decks with three or more colors without them, they're as good as gold now and may pass $15 faster than you can say, "I hope the rumors of Ice Age triple lands are true."

When the dust settles, we may see a slow-down in the market for cards, excluding cards they'll never bring back—powerful OOPs like Moxes, Black Lotus, and Time Walk.

Since Ice Age and especially Chronicles are coming soon, many people are eyeing good OOPs like a Twinkie at 11 a.m. Sure you're hungry, but lunch is coming soon. Be especially wary of the Icy Manipulator. It was recently unrestricted for tournament play (so now you can have four of them and still be tourney-legal), and it's rumored to be returning in Ice Age.

Douglas Goldstein, production manager for both InQuest and Wizard: The Guide to Comics, has 20 pounds of undigested red meat in his colon.

The following InQuest game card price guide is as accurate and up-to-date as we could make it. But values listed are only guides—prices may vary depending upon the local availability and popularity of a card.

CONDITION GUIDE

Mint: The border is perfectly even all around on both sides. Both faces are perfectly smooth, clean, and free of printer's marks. The colors are razor-sharp, and all of the original gloss is still there. Many cards right out of the pack fall short of Mint standards. No imperfections may be allowed in a Mint card, regardless of its age. Mint cards sell for more than the prices in this guide; how much more depends on the card.

Near Mint: Just short of perfect. A very small printer's mark is acceptable, or two corners may be very slightly worn. Outstanding gloss and color. The centering is 65/35 or better—that is, one border may be 30% bigger than its counterpart. Prices in this guide are for Near Mint cards.

Excellent: Excellent cards may have four slightly worn corners, 85/15 centering, and jagged or roughly cut edges. Excellent specimens may have a printer's mark, poor focus, discoloration or a slight loss of gloss. Excellent cards sell for 50 to 70 percent of price guide listings.

Good: A card that's graded Good isn't really good. It's an OK card that got into a scuffle. Good cards sell for 15 to 30 percent of price guide listings.

Fair: Remember what your mother told you about not saying anything at all if you can't say something nice? Well, Fair cards sell for five to 15 percent of price guide listings.

Poor: Poor cards are just that. They sell for less than five percent of price guide listings.

RARITY

In this price guide, cards are either common, uncommon, or rare. Guess what? We've got a real simple abbreviation system for those words—check it out below.

C .....Common
U .....Uncommon
R .....Rare

POWER RATINGS

— The Best. These cards should fit nicely into most decks. Frequently game-breakers, it's often worth finding a way to include five-star cards.

— Excellent. These are cards that go into winning decks. They're not always worth going out of your way to accommodate, but if the fit is right, these cards should find a place in most decks.

— Average. These cards generally round out a well-tuned deck. Many three-star cards complement other cards in your deck. Which cards you use from this category depend largely on your deck concept.

— Poor. This category includes many common creatures and spells that are often passed over in favor of more powerful cards with similar costs or restrictions.

— The Worst. Cards that duplicate the abilities of another card, but at a higher cost or other demand on the user; cards whose uses are very obscure, and may demand a difficult combination to be useful; and cards that leave you wondering if there's a good use for 'em. Usually, there isn't.

— Inapplicable. These cards are basic resources. You can't win a game playing only these cards, but you can't win without 'em, either.

Whenever anyone loses a land, Dingus Egg does 2 damage to that player for each land lost.

Whichever player has more lands to play must discard enough lands of his or her choice to equalize the number of lands both players have in play. Then, equalize the cards in hand and then creatures in play the same way. Creatures lost in this manner are considered buried.

■ The Dingus Egg does two damage to an opponent for each land that is lost. So play a light land deck (for normal land, substitute counter-building terrain from Fallen Empires, Mana Batteries, Sol Rings, and so on), then play Balance when your opponent has oodles of mana out. That's gotta hurt.

Target creature gains +3/+3. Its power is doubled and its toughness is doubled. If it's already a creature, its toughness is doubled.

■ Here's a fun one. Attack with a creature your opponent can block and kill. After blocking is declared but before damage is assigned, cast Enchantment of Alteration, taking a Divine Transformation or another enhancement from one of your creatures—or better yet, one of hers!—and move it to your attacker. Then act as surprised as she when her critter dies.

Boy, these Legend guys are keen. Nebuchadnezzar is especially cool. You can tap him and X mana and name a card, and your opponent must randomly show you X cards from her hand. If the card you named is among those she shows, she's got to discard it. The trick: use Glasses of Urza beforehand to peek at your opponent's hand.

Island Sanctuary only allows you to be attacked by creatures that have island-walk or flying, but for that to work you can't draw a card as normal. No problem. The Library of Alexandria will still get you that much-needed card every turn. Throw in other card getters like Jandor's Ring and Jayemdae Tome to insure your killer combo.

Name/Description	Kind	Rarity	Rating	Artist	Cost	Price
ARTIFACE
Aladdin's Lamp X, T. Instead of usual draw, draw X cards but take only one into hand. Shuffle the leftovers and put them at bottom of library.	ART	U		Mark Tedin	10	5.00
Aladdin's Ring B, T: Do 4 damage to any target.	ART	U		Don Frazier	8	7.00
Bottle of Suleiman 1: Flip a coin. If opponent wins, do 5 damage to you and discard Bottle of Suleiman. Otherwise, immediately replace Bottle of Suleiman with a Djinn taken, which is a 5/5 flying artifact creature.	ART	R		Jesper Myrftors	4	6.50
Brass Man Pay 1 during upkeep to untap 1/3.	AC	U		Christopher Rush	1	1.50
City in a Bottle Remove all Arabian Nights cards from play, prevent new ones from being put into play.	ART	R	•	Drew Tucker	2	16.00
Dancing Scimitar Flying, 1/5.	AC	R		Anson Maddocks	4	6.50
Ebony Horse 2: Untap one of your attacking creatures. Treat target as if it never attacked, except that defenders assigned to block it may not block another creature.	ART	R	•	Dameon Willich	3	4.50
Flying Carpet 2, T. Give one creature flying ability until end of turn. If target is destroyed before end of turn, so is Flying Carpet.	ART	R	*	Mark Tedin	4	7.00
Jandar's Ring 2, T. Discard a card you just drew, and draw another to replace it.	ART	R	••	Don Frazier	6	7.00
Jandar's Saddlebags 3, T: Untap a creature.	ART	R	*	Dameon Willich	2	7.00
Jeweled Bird T: Exchange Bird for your ante, then draw a new card.	ART	R	•	Arny Weber	1	8.50
Pyramids 2: Prevent a land from being destroyed. 2: Remove an enchantment from a land.	ART	R	••••	Amy Weber	6	20.00
Ring of Ma'ru 5: Sacrifice Ring of Ma'ru to select a card from outside the game instead of drawing.	ART	R	••••	Don Frazier	5	26.50
Sandals of Abdallah 2: Give islandwalk to a creature until end of turn. If target creature is destroyed before end of turn, so is Sandals of Abdallah.	ART	R	••	Don Frazier	4	8.50

Next to blue's Leviathan, the al' Colossus is the biggest bad boy in Magic. The only problem is that it takes nine (count 'em nine!) mana to untap. Easy way around that: chuck an Instill Energy on him, which allows him to untap an extra time per turn for free!

BLACK
Cuombajj Witches 1: Each player does 1 damage to any target.	SC	R	•••	Dameon Willich	BB	5.50
El-Hajjaj Gain 1 life for every point of damage El-Hajjaj inflicts. 1/1.	SC	R	•••	Dameon Willich	BB1	9.00
Eng Raiders Lose 2 life at end of turn if Eng Raiders don't attack except in the turn when they're summoned. 2/3.	SC	C	••	Dameon Willich	B1	1.00
Guardian Beast If untapped, prevents the stealing, destruction, or enchantment of 1 creature. 3/4.	SC	R	••••	Ken Meyer Jr.	B3	50.00
Hasten Ogress Pay 2 when Hasten Ogress attacks or loses 2 life. 3/2.	SC	C	•	Don Frazier	BH	2.00
Junun Effreet Flying. Pay BB during upkeep or Junun Effreet is destroyed. 3/3.	SC	R	•••	Christopher Rush	BB1	8.50
Juzam Djinn Flying. Pay BB during upkeep or Juzam Djinn is destroyed. 3/3.	SC	R	••••	Mark Tedin	BB2	50.00
Khabal Ghoul Lose 1 life at end of turn for each creature that was destroyed that turn. 1/1.	SC	P	••••	Douglas Shuler	B2	27.50
Oubliette Place target creature out of play.	EN	C	••••	Douglas Shuler	BB1	5.50
Sorceress Queen 1: Make another creature 0/2 until end of turn. Special characteristics and enchantments on creature are not affected. 1/1.	SC	R	•••••	Kaja Foglio	BB1	11.00

Stone-Throwing Devils First strike. 1/1.	SC	C	•••	Ken Meyer Jr.	B	4.50
BLUE
Dandan Cannot attack if opponent has no islands. Destroyed if you have no islands. 4/1.	SC	C	•	Drew Tucker	UU	3.00
Fishliver Oil Give target creature islandwalk.	EC	C	••••	Anson Maddocks	U1	2.50

Name/Description	Kind	Rarity	Rating	Artist	Cost	Price
Colossus of Sardia Trample. Colossus does not untap as normal in your untap phase; you may spend 9 in your upkeep to untap Colossus. 9/9.	AC	R	*	Jesper Myrfores	9	14.00
Coral Helm 3. Give target creature +2/+2 until end of turn. Whenever you use this ability, randomly discard a card from your hand. Coral Helm cannot be used unless you have cards in hand.	ART	R		Any Weber	3	5.50
Cursed Rack Opponent must discard to 4 cards during discard phase.	ART	U		Richard Thomas	4	3.00
Dragon Engine 2: +1/+0 until end of turn. 1/3.	AC	C		Anson Maddocks	3	2.00

Normally, you use Juxtapose, a spell that swaps your highest-casting-cost creature and artifact with an opponent's, to trade your puny Goblin Ballroom Brigade for your opponent's Serra. Not this time, though. Cast Juxtapose and give your opponent your Lord of the Pit—then watch him sit down to dinner, with your nemesis picking up the tab. Just make sure you have a good defense, or things might get ugly.

Feldon's Cane 0. Reshuffle your graveyard into your library. Remove Feldon's Cane from game when it is used, returning it to its owner's deck after the game is over.	ART	U	*	Mark Tadin	1	11.00
Golgathion Sylex 1. Discard all Anghelites cards, including Golgathion Sylex, from play.	ART	R	*	Kerstin Koman	4	8.00
Grapeshot Catapult T: Do 1 damage to a target flying creature. 2/3	AC	C		Dan Frazier	4	1.00
Ivory Tower Take 1 life for each card over four you have in hand during upkeep.	ART	U		Margaret Organ-Keen	1	9.00
Jalum Tome 2. Draw a card from your library and discard a card of your choosing to your graveyard.	ART	R		Tom Wänerstrand	3	5.00
Nightstone All attacking creatures gain +1/+0.	ART	U		Pete Venters	4	3.00
Millstone 2. T: Take the top 2 cards from target player's library and place them in target player's graveyard.	ART	U		Kaja Foglio	2	4.00
Mishra's War Machine Bands. Discard 1 card from your hand during upkeep or Mishra's War Machine taps to do 3 damage to you. 5/5.	AC	R	*	Any Weber	7	5.00
Obeisk of Undoing 6. Take any of your permanents in play back to your hand, discarding enchantments on such cards.	ART	R		Tom Wänerstrand	1	13.00
Onulet If Onulet is placed in graveyard, its controller takes 2 life. 2/2.	AC	U		Anson Maddocks	3	3.00
Ornithopter Flying. 0/2.	AC	C		Any Weber	0	1.00
Primal Clay When cast, choose whether to make Primal Clay a 1/6 wall, 3/3 ground creature, or 2/2 flying creature.	AC	U		Kaja Foglio	6	5.00
Rock, The Do 1 damage for each card under three opponent has in hand during upkeep.	ART	U		Richard Thomas	1	1.50
Rakalite 2. Prevent 1 damage to any target. Rakalite returns to owner's hand when used.	ART	U		Christopher Rush	6	2.50
Rocket Launcher Do 1 damage to any target. If it is used, Rocket Launcher is destroyed. (and its controller's Rocket Launcher may not be used until it begins a turn in play on your side).	ART	U		Pete Venters	4	8.00
Shapeshifter -any number from 0 to 6. Choose * when Shapeshifter is cast and during your upkeep. (0/1-)	AC	R		Dan Frazier	6	9.00
Staff of Zegon 3. Make target creature -2/0 until end of turn. Creatures with power less than 1 deal no damage.	ART	C		Mark Tadin	1	4.00
Su-Chi When Su-Chi goes to the graveyard, its controller gets 4 colorless mana. 4/4	AC	U		Christopher Rush	4	3.50
Tablet of Epity 1. Take 1 life each time an artifact is placed in the graveyard. (Can only give 1 life for each turn an artifact is placed in the graveyard).	ART	C		Christopher Rush	1	50
Townes's Coffin 3. T: Take a creature out of play. Target is considered out of play for as long as Coffin remains tapped. If Coffin is untapped or removed, creature returns to play tapped. You may choose not to leave Coffin tapped.	ART	R		Christopher Rush	4	20.00

Everybody knows that Pestilence is an excellent all-around card. But it's more versatile than you might think. If you're having a problem with an annoying regenerator like the Will-O-The-Wisp, try pumping one mana into Pestilence at a time, forcing your opponent to tap a swamp to regenerate the Wisp each time. See who runs out of mana first! Use the same trick against an opponent who has a COP: Black.

Remove all Sand Warriors if Hazezon Tamar leaves play. 2/4.

INQUEST

It's not a

price guide:

It's Survival!

The Personal Incarnation is great, but if it dies—ouch, you lose half your life! The catch: Personal Incarnation has to go to the graveyard to hurt you. When something kills your big guy, take him out of the game with Swords to Plowshare. The Incarnation doesn't head to the graveyard (he's up farming!), you don't lose half your life, and you don't lose Incarnation's current power in life!

The Network is one of the best Illuminati to play because it moves you toward your goals—and good plot cards—so quickly. And whenever the Network controls either Silicon Valley or Finland, it gets a huge advantage—you'll be able to kick butt when it comes to acquiring computer groups.

Yup, they're rare, but they're also two of the most important cards you can put into virtually any deck. Elders allows you to reorganize your power structure at any time, filling in gaps or freeing up space. The Bank allows you to use its token to draw two plot cards at any time, which can be a game-breaker, especially if someone is close to winning and you draw a disaster that can stop her cold.

This card is a kinda like the Magic card Time Walk, and because of its power, it's restricted to one use per person per game. It's a great way to restock action tokens during someone else's turn ("Shields up!"), or to get two turns close together and steal the game from your adversaries.

Do you have a lot of personalities you want to protect? Voilà—try empowering your paparazzi by linking them to another group with Celebrity Spokesman. When you add Professional Sports to the mix, your pal will have enough power to cow Marv Albert or John Madden. If that's still not enough to satisfy you, use Messiah or your home-grown superstar. For style and a good laugh, play this combo on Björn.

The Games Gamers Play

By Rick Swan

Ever wonder what game professionals play in their spare time? They play games all day at work, so what do they do just for fun?

If you're Steve Jackson, designer of Illuminati: New World Order, the answer is, not much. "Mostly what I'm playing these days is whatever the people at the convention feel like playing," he admits. "What convention? Whichever one I'm at. Because when I'm at home or at the office, I don't have much time for games. This is a problem, and I'm going to deal with it."

Decipher President Warren Holland shares similar frustrations. "Spare time? What spare time? Well, the closest I've come to playing anything is Myst. As you can probably tell from the design of our Star Trek: The Next Generation Customizable Card Game, I'm a very visual person. I think Rand and Robyn Miller and the rest of their team have done a great job with Myst, considering the limits of existing CD-ROM technology." Anything else? "Actually, I have been consuming in mass quantities everything Star Wars in preparation for our Star Wars Customizable Card Game coming in the fall."

Maybe Warren should get together with Bill Smith, the Star Wars line editor at West End Games. Despite his affection for auto racing video games ("I'm dying to buy a Pentium just to play NASCAR Racing"), Bill remains a loyal Star Wars roleplayer. "It's more than a job. It's a way of life." He also has a soft spot for Castle Falkenstein, Planescape, and Bloodshadows.

Lester Smith, a staff designer for TSR, relaxes with the Star Wars and Vampire: The Masquerade roleplaying games, as well as the Jyhad card game. "It's refreshing to play someone else's stuff," he says. "And I like to keep up with other companies."

Another avid roleplayer, Erick Wujcik, the publisher of Amber Diceless Role-Playing, has maintained a Thursday night campaign for nearly 17 years. "I gamemaster my Dragonwright fantasy campaign, with my own weird rules." But his extracurricular gaming isn't confined to roleplaying. "The finest board game in the world, in my not-so-humble opinion, is Acquire. As a game designer, I marvel at just how elegant it is to play. Consider that (1) a full game, start to finish, takes under an hour to complete—more like 40 minutes if I get to be a pushy banker—and (2) there are no early winners, since the ultimate outcome isn't known until the final counting up."

Kevin Siembieda, president of Palladium Books and the author of the Rifts and Robotech games, agrees. "Acquire is my favorite board game of all time. In fact, we used to have an Acquire night once a week." Kevin also enjoys basketball and other athletic pursuits, "probably because I sit on my bottom for eight to 16 hours every day, so it's nice to run around for a change."

Don Perrin, co-designer of the Star of the Guardians card game, is also a board game aficionado, with a fondness for multiplayer military simulations like Shogun. "Recently, with the advent of the collectible trading card game, my gaming has taken a somewhat different form," he says. "If there's only a half-hour to play, I'll play a quick game of Magic: The Gathering." Once a week, he and Margaret Weis, his significant other and fellow Star of the Guardians mastermind, engage in a no-holds-barred game of Bridge, "the non-collectible card game."

Margaret's addiction to Bridge began in college. "My friends and I played in the student commons for hours each day," she recalls, "pausing only to go to class—most of the time. I remember one member of our group who skipped a final because he had such a great hand; he couldn't leave." She now plays Bridge on the computer, along with a game called Empire, which has seen her through some trying moments.

"When I was in chemotherapy treatment for breast cancer last year, Don and I took my Powerbook portable Mac computer and played Empire while I was hooked up to the machine. The game took my mind off the fact that they were pumping poison into my veins. The nurses really enjoyed watching the graphics on the screen. They tried to convince him to let me win."

"He never did!"

Former newspaper publisher, rock musician, and medical student, Rick Swan has designed and edited nearly 50 game products.

One of the games gamers love to play is Myst, a CD-ROM game by Rand and
